Due to open Tuesday at the Lyric is "Something to Shout About," which tells of an attractive Altoona, Pat, music teacher and composer who tries to sell her songs to Broadway. Don Ameche, Janet Blair, Jack Oakie and William Gaxton have the lead roles. Also opening will be "The Yanks Are Coming." Ending Monday are "Meet the Stewarts," and "Fugitive of the Plains."

Showing at the Drive-in theatre Monday and Tuesday will be "The Navy Comes Thru," an action-packed production starring tough and likable Pat O'Brien and popular George Murphy.

What happens when a trained nurse discovers that the patient she is treating on a Caribbean island is one of the "walking dead" as a result of native witchcraft, leads to the hair-raising climax of "I Walked With a Zombie," currently at the Sigma. Frances Dee portrays the nurse. "Good Morning, Judge," with Dennis O'Kcefe and Mary Beth Hughes also is showing.
