95 Years Old, State Marks Anniversary

Ninety-five years ago today—on May 29, 1849—Wisconsin became the 30th state to become a member of the United States of America.

Today Wisconsin, which once was called "Wisconsin," "Ouisconsin," or "Wisconsin," is devoting almost its entire attention to contributing as much as possible to the war effort. But on this day 95 years ago the sparsely-populated and heavily-wooded region that is now the state was celebrating an act of congress which gave this area official status of statehood.

Madison then was a village of 2,000 and was reached only by rough wagon road. There were no railroads. But the little village rejoiced with the rest of this frontier region as settlers went about their preparations for electing a governor and for the convening of the legislature.
