WHA to Broadcast Six Benet Stories on Tuesday Shows

Six short stories by Stephen Vincent Benet have been adapted for a series of dramatic radio plays to be presented by the WHA plays Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

In answer to listener requests for more drama on the state station, WHA script writers Joyce Jaeger Bartell, Romance Koopman, and Margaret Snyder have prepared play scripts from the work of the late great contemporary American author.

"None of the stories has anything to do with the present war," Mrs. Koopman said, "but all have been chosen to perpetuate the fine ideals of Benet which will be vital to an adequate resolution of postwar problems."

Mrs. Bartell wrote the radio plays from "A Tooth for Paul Revere," beginning the series June 22, and "The Last Legion," to be heard Tuesday, July 21.

"The Die-hard," to be heard July 7, and "Johnny Bye and the Fool-killer," concluding the series July 28, have been written by Margaret Snyder. Mrs. Koopman, national prize-winning script writer of Wisconsin School of the Air shows, (recently concluded weekly program "This Is True Field" and other programs), has adapted "O'Halloran's Luck," July 14, and "The Last of the Legions," June 29.

City Boys, Girls Review 5 Books

The Boys' and Girls' Own Book Section

BY THE EMERSON LIBRARY SUMMER WORKSHOP OF THE MADISON FREE LIBRARY

THE GREAT GEPPY, William Pene Du Bois. (Viking, 1940, $2.00) Ages 9-12. Have you ever seen a red-and-white striped horse? Or a horse that was a detective? To find them both rolled into one, read "The Great Geppy."

IN THIS STORY Sgt. Murphy's horse goes to a circus--of all places--to solve a mystery. Of course, if you would like to know what it is and how he solves it, you will want to read the book for yourself. The story is easy enough for fourth graders, but older boys and girls will like it, too.

IRIS STECKLING East Junior High School Grade 7 CADDIE WOODLAWN, Carol Ryrick Brink. (Macmillan, 1935, $2.00) Ages 10-14. The whole village of Dunnville was upset that night. The Indians were on the warpath. They were going to massacre every "pale-face" in the village. The people had no gunpowder with which to fight the Indians.

Would you like to find out how a 12-year old girl saved the village? Then read "Caddie Woodlawn," a story of early days in our own Wisconsin. Both girls and boys like this book. You will, too.

IDA NAFZ Emerson School Grade 5 TREE FOR PETER, Kate Seredy. Illus. by the author. (Viking, 1941, $2.00) Ages 9-12. Poor little lame Peter of Shantytown! His only friend was an old man. His only toy was a little spade.

The story of "Tree for Peter" begins when another little boy looks out of a train window. It tells how Shantytown was built up, and how Peter and his mother lived happily ever after. The author, Kate Seredy, has drawn many

Invited to Use City Library

Short Term Cards Available for Those Temporarily in City

Although most of the people who borrow books from the Madison Free library are townpeople, many temporary residents - students, military personnel, legislators, and tourists - are invited to use the facilities of the library. During 1942, 598 cards were issued to visitors who were not permanent residents.

The numerous summer visitors obtain a borrowers' card by presenting identification including their Madison address. Last year, 347 visitors, most of them students at the summer session of the University of Wisconsin, registered for short term cards. These cards expire Oct. 1. Bearers have the same privileges as permanent residents.

Hours Changed

During July and August, the library will be closed Saturday afternoons. The main library will be open from 9 to 1:00. The Sixth ward branch library will be open from 9:00 to 12:00 m. instead of from 3:00 to 6:00 p. m.

Men and women of the armed forces, whether they are stationed in the city or at Trux Field, are welcomed as borrowers. The military personnel may borrow technical and recreational reading with cards that are renewable every four months. During the first six months of 1943, the library issued cards to 167 service men and women. Last year, 178 men and women in uniform were registered.

Have Special Card

For those who are in Madison just a few days on business, the library has a special deposit card. Upon depositing $5, guests in the city may borrow two books at a time. When the books are returned, the money is refunded. Residents of suburban areas who wish to use the library pay two dollars a year. They are privileged to use the reference services free of charge, but any material taken from the library will be issued to suburban residents only if they have a subscription card.

While the state legislature is in session, lawmakers and their wives may borrow books without charge. During the last session, six legislators obtained borrowers' cards.
