France, Not U. S., May Supply Wheat for Africa Use

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Heavy demands and lack of shipping space for American wheat, coupled with the necessity of buying up large supplies, may make it necessary for the North African economic board to pay $2.10 a bushel for French wheat, the state department said Friday night.

No wheat has yet been purchased by the board and the matter is still in an exploratory stage, according to latest reports received here, it was said.

The state department explanation followed publication of dispatches from North Africa quoting Sen. Ralph O. Brewster (R-Me.), one of several senators touring battle theaters, as criticizing the proposed purchases. Brewster pointed out that the French price is 50 to 60 cents a bushel higher than wheat prices in this country.

In North Africa, the essential needs of the army and of liberated peoples must be considered, it was said. The army will have first call on all reserves established by the board, the state department said.

Uncle Ray's Corner

EARLY in the present century, an American scientist was "hunting treasures" in western China. He filled hundreds of boxes with objects of art, some of which were centuries old.

The chief prize which the scientist was able to buy from the Chinese was a stone turtle. It was a large statue which had been carved from a block of solid stone close to 12 centuries before. Its weight was about 1,200 pounds. The statue was shipped to the United States.

In the world of Nature there are turtles which about equal the weight of that Chinese stone turtle. They are the largest of all living turtles and are known as "leatherbacks." They live in salt water,

GIANT STONE TURTLE carved 1,200 YEARS ago

A leatherneck has big "flippers" which spread out from behind the neck. The flippers may be as much as a foot wide and three feet long. They are used for swimming. The female crawls out of the sea at egg-laying time. Reaching a point on a beach above high-tide mark, the animal scrapes a hole in the sand and lays white eggs about the size and shape of tennis balls. More than 100 of these eggs may be laid in a single nest. As soon as they hatch from the eggs, the small turtles make
