

Morgan Manufactures More Maltruths On "Coffee Time"

New Stage Door Canteen Unit To Be Established Thursday Night In Boston By Celebrities

Manufacturing more fabrications about the famous Morgan clan, that teller of tall tales "Honest" Frank Morgan will again have trouble proving his points on another half-hour of hilarity on "Coffee Time" Thursday over WEAF at 8 p. m. (EWT). Then that loveable brat Baby Snooks, as played by Fanny Brice, filled with new mischief, will tackle Daddy with more pestiferous, until he forsakes all thoughts of "spare-the-rod" tactics.

The screen actor John Garfield joins Gertrude Lawrence, Walter O'Keefe, Helen Menken, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Frank Parker on the "Stage Door Canteen" broadcast, when it airs the opening of the new Boston Canteen, on Thursday, at 9:30 p. m. EWT, over Station WABC.

Jimmy Durante says the only reason Garry Moore teamed up with him is because Garry wants to hitch his bragging to a star. Moore asserts that every time Durante appears in a picture the producers' prayer is "Forgive us our cinemas." They'll stop feuding long enough to send a new barrage of laugh lines over WEAF Thursday, at 10 p. m. EWT.

Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, a member of the Senate subcommittee on agriculture, will be heard Thursday at 11:45 a. m. EWT, over WJZ when he addresses the National Food Conference of Consumers and Producers to convene in Chicago. Sen. O'Daniel will speak on "The National Food Situation."

Henry Aldrich starts off the first day of school in a delirious whirl of dressing and undressing, getting thrown out of school and back in, until he is thoroughly confused by higher education and also by parental discipline during the Aldrich Family broadcast over WEAF Thursday at 8:30 p. m. EWT.

"Falstaff Openshaw" (Alan Reed), the poor man's poet laureate, and Jinx Falkenburg, one of the most beautiful girls to ever grace a magazine cover, will add their talents to the proceedings at the Music hall on Thursday at 9 p. m. (EWT) over WEAF.

"Should the Atlantic Charter be the Basis for the Peace?" will be the subject to be discussed on "America's Town Meeting of the Air" on Thursday at 8:30 p. m. EWT, over WJZ.

The youngest children ever to appear on the "Yankee Doodle Quiz" broadcast will form the scholastic duo competing against the adult team on the program of Thursday, at 10:30 p. m. EWT, over WJZ. Both are radio artists—"Fatsy" O'Shea, 10 years old, and Jackie Ayers, a 12-year-old boy. Both are well advanced in their studies at Children's Professional school.

"DOUBLE LIFE" IS ALL NEWS TO THIS MAN

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 15 (U.P.)—Federal agents questioned a man today who claimed it was all news to him that he has two wives, two names and an impatient draft board.

Ivan Willard Horn, alias Willard McDonald, 39, said the whole thing could be laid to amnesia.

He told U. S. Commissioner Howard Young that everything went black some time in 1941. He woke up sitting next to a strange man in an automobile in Florida, he said.

The stranger said Horn had left North Carolina because of "woman trouble" and gave Horn a sealed envelope marked "not to be opened until death." Horn said he observed the directions.

He moved from Florida to Indianapolis, became a streetcar motorman and was married. But his wife apparently was more curious than he. She talked him into opening the envelope.

The letter said he was not McDonald, but Horn, and that he had a wife in Cumberland, N. C., plus an interested draft board.

His new wife, anxious to learn if there really was another woman, left with the letter for North Carolina.

Then came federal agents with a warrant for Horn's arrest for draft evasion.

"Claudia," Broadway Stage Hit, Comes To Quilna Screen

Delightful Story Featuring Dorothy McGuire, Robert Young And Ina Claire Opens Saturday

"Claudia," whimsical heroine from the pen of Rose Franken, who delighted Broadway audiences for two years, will be seen on the screen of the Quilna theatre starting Saturday. The film will feature Dorothy McGuire, Robert Young and Ina Claire. Showing thru Friday will be "Good Luck Mr. Yates," and "What's Buzzin' Cousin," two swell pictures filled with romance and laughs.

George Olsen brings his famous orchestra to the Ohio theatre stage Thursday for four performances. Titled the hit band of 1943, this outfit will present both fast and slow music. Featured with the band will be lovely June Blair and Freddy Dume. On the screen will be a comedy, "Petticoat Larceny," with Ruth Warrick and Joan Carroll. Stage shows will be presented at 2, 4:30, 7 and 9:30 p. m.

Currently pleasing Sigma patrons is "Salute to the Marines," fast moving action picture filmed in beautiful technicolor. Wallace Reilly has one of the finest roles in his career in this hit. Also showing is "Many Aldrich Swings II."

A film which has been seen by thousands of Lima and district residents, "Hitler's Children," returns to the city Friday and will show at the Drive In theatre. This story about German features Tim Holt and Bonita Granville. "Hangmen Also Die" shows thru Thursday.

"Headin' for God's Country," which opens Thursday at the Lyric, is an adroit mixture of red-blooded action and interesting character delineation. William Lundigan plays the part of a young prospector, down on his luck, who finds himself in the remote village of Sunvik, Alaska.

"Blazing Guns," with Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard, also will show. The methods employed by the British Intelligence Service to track down spies and fifth columnists are vividly disclosed in "Squadron Leader X," currently playing at the State. "Two Tickets to London," starring Alan Curtis and Michele Morgan, completes the bill.

where his father was owner and operator of a large furniture moving concern. In his boyhood, George showed an inclination toward a musical career, so his father bought him a violin and a piano. He bought himself a set of

There followed a protracted difference of opinion between George to the Ohio stage on Thursday, and his father as to whether he has a natural engaging smile, should apply himself to the piano, which displays a gleaming set of the fiddle or the drums. As a result he eventually became proficient on all three instruments.

June Blair and Freddy Dume will be featured with the orchestra leader. Shows will be at 2, 4:30, 7 and 9:30 p. m., the management announced.

"Petticoat Larceny," will be on the screen on Thursday with lead roles taken by Ruth Warrick and Joan Carroll.

QUILNA

"Claudia," the Rose Franken comedy drama that was such a smash Broadway hit has been translated to the screen with Dorothy McGuire in her original role.

The tender comedy romance, which features Robert Young and Ina Claire, opens Saturday at the Quilna theatre.

If any historian ever tries to catalogue Hollywood's most versatile performers, the name of Rochester will certainly be right at the top of his list. In addition to providing uproarious laughs with his comedy routines in "What's Buzzin' Cousin?" at the Quilna theatre, the popular radio star also sings several novelty songs and proves his dancing ability by keeping step with tap dancer Ann Miller.

CLAUDE TRUVRON, teamed with Edgar Buchanan and Jess Barker in "Good Luck Mr. Yates," the picture now showing at the Quilna theatre, was one of the few Hollywood actresses who held out against slacks on women. She just wouldn't wear them. Then she was assigned the role of a girl welder in this new picture and she had to wear pants—blue denim. Now she admits it's the only costume for a female war plant worker, but she still shuns them at home.

LYRIC

"Headin' for God's Country," the picture now showing at the Lyric theatre, is an adroit mixture of red-blooded action and interesting character delineation.

William Lundigan, who stars in the production, plays the part of a young prospector, down on his luck, who finds himself in the remote village of Sunvik, Alaska.

The canny inhabitants mistook the "stranger" and Higgins, the local storekeeper, particularly annoyed when Lundigan beats up his son for mistreating a dog, and is instrumental in having the young man put in prison.

To get even with Higgins and the other villagers, he takes advantage of the fact that the local printer, Clem Adams, gets drunk and gains access to his printing press, where he prints a phony copy of a Seattle newspaper, in which he headlines the news that the U. S. is at war with Japan (tho it is not yet Dec. 7, 1941).

The document is novel and exciting, and it would mark the pleasure of seeing the film were it told here, but let it be said that the story grips from start to finish.

Michael Ranyan, the young prospector, is played brilliantly by William Lundigan. Virginia Dale is a pretty young weather station operator. Henry Javenport gives an impressive character study as Clem Adams. Other parts are played by J. Frank Hamilton as Higgins, Eddie Acuff as his son and Harry Shannon as an Axis spy. Anna Q. Nilson, of silent screen days, plays a character part wonderfully well.

MOVIE INDUSTRY IS PRAISED BY TREASURY HEAD

Secretary Morgenthau paid a glowing tribute to the service of the motion picture industry to the nation and the Treasury's War Finance committee in a statement received by Wallace J. "Doc" Elliott, chairman of the film War Activities committee here.

"You people are always first to respond in a crisis," Secretary Morgenthau said. "The way you have rallied to the Third War Loan campaign is magnificent. I often think that you yourselves do not realize the importance of the part you play in every effort that involves the American public. You not only will sell bonds in this drive, but you will inspire others, by your example and enthusiasm, to work harder for the common cause."

We of the industry are glad to know that Secretary Morgenthau feels as he does," Elliott said. "His tribute will spur all of us to contribute our best in the remaining weeks of the campaign."

Richmond, Va., is the largest cigarette-making city in the world.
