Fred MacMurray, whose specialty has been making love to glamor girls of the screen, takes on a bride in the person of Joan Crawford in the first reel of their first role together. This is "Above Sus-picion," Helen MacInnes' dramatic story of counter-espionage, Nazi secret intrigue and "the underground" in central Europe prior to the outbreak of war. It comes Saturday to the Sigma theatre.

MacMurray and Miss Crawford play an Oxford professor and his bride, who devote their honeymoon to carrying out a dangerous mission on the continent. Their escapes from the Gestapo and other adventures cram the story with thrills.

Directed by Richard Thorpe, the picture boasts a cast that includes Conrad Veidt, Basil Rathbone, Reginald Owen, Felix Bressart, Richard Ainley, Bruce Lester and
