

Red Skelton's Picture Plays To Crowds At Ohio Theatre

Films currently showing at Lima motion picture houses include a wide variety of interesting attractions. Adventure and thrills are balanced by revues and other types of productions, giving the theatre-goers practically their choice in selections.

"I Dood It," the present picture at the Ohio theatre, is one of Red Skelton's outstanding productions. Co-starring with him is the beautiful and talented Eleanor Powell and the team has been highly successful in turning out an entertaining vehicle.

"Appointment in Berlin" now showing at the Quilna, is a picture which evidences the "happy ending" which has been killed by the war. It has thrills aplenty. Also showing at the same house is "Dangerous Blondies," a murder-comedy film.

Fred Astaire and his new dancing partner, Joan Leslie, are featured in "The Sky's the Limit" at the Sigma. The companion picture there is "Adventure in Iraq" which will keep you on the edge of your seat.

That famous picture "This is the Army" in which Irving Berlin has done some of his greatest work, now is on the screen at the State. It features in addition to a number of Hollywood stars, also many men in the Army.

"Chetniks," depicting the outstanding work of the fighting guerrillas in hampering Axis operations in the Balkans, is being shown at the Lyric as a part of a double bill with "It's a Great Life." The latter film is based on the famous comic strip, "Blondie and Dagwood."

The Drive In theatre now is showing the interesting "Little Old New York," starring Alice Faye and Fred MacMurray.

QUILNA—The "happy ending," long a Hollywood institution is on the way out. War practically killed it. With Pearl Harbor, the screen suddenly realized that it must do more than manufacture innocuous celluloid drama, in the face of grim reality, it could no longer go on just telling Grimm fairy tales.

And with that understanding, Hollywood came of age! This maturity is evident in several new films, particularly the highly dramatic "Appointment in Berlin," now playing at the Quilna theatre. In this exciting story of espionage, George Sanders and Marguerite Chapman, stars of the film, die tragic deaths at the conclusion.

They die, however, not because of frustrated love but for a principle. George Sanders purposefully plummets his plane into an oil tank to light the way for the R. A. F. and Marguerite Chapman, disavowing the Nazi tenets, is killed by her own brother.

"Wake Island" was certainly not an "all-ends well" picture and it was popular and successful. In the same class we have "Bataan," "The Moon is Down," and in "Keeper of the Flame," Katherine Hepburn dies at the conclusion of the story. A radical departure!

LYRIC—Philip Dorn and Martin Kosleck are teamed for the second time in "Chetniks." The Fighting Guerrillas, the action thriller at the Lyric theatre.

And this time, moviegoers will be happy to know, the shoe is on the other foot. In the first picture, they made together, entitled "Underground," Dorn was tortured and eventually killed by Kosleck portraying a Gestapo official. In their new film, Kosleck's position is unchanged, but Dorn's is. The latter appears as the resourceful leader of the Balkan irregulars exacting their toll from the invader. Kosleck still has the edge in numbers and equipment, but he finds himself unable to cope with the daring patriots fighting for the women and freedom they love.

While the action is hot and heavy in the picture, romance hasn't been slighted either. The film finds a double-barreled love in progress between Dora and Ann Sten on the one hand, and John Sheppard and Virginia Cilmere on the other. The picture was directed by Louis King from a screen play by Jack Andrews and Edward E. Paramore.

BREWSTER HIT S DELAYS ON AIR BASE PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Convicted that the United States should exert aerial might in peace as well as in war, Senator Brewster (R-Me) advised today that "aeronautics must inevitably be an instrument of national policy."

Reporting to the Truman committee on the recent inspection tour with four other senators to world battlefronts, Brewster added:

"If America is to maintain an interest in the affairs of the world, America must be able in the field of communications and transportation to sit at least as an equal at the table of the nations."

"Every day of delay in approaching this problem increases the hazards that American interests will suffer in the years that are to come."

NUTMEATS PUT UNDER CEILINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Price control was extended over nutmeats for the first time today with an announcement by the Office of Price Administration of ceilings which it said should save consumers at least 10 cents a pound.

The most important of the varieties affected by the order are walnuts, almonds, filberts, and pecans. Peanuts already are under price control.

MANNING TABLE WORK REDUCED

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Regional War Manpower Commission today reduced clerical work involved in employers' preparation of manning tables.

Employers in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky hereafter need not fill out part three of the manning table, Regional Director Robert C. Goodwin announced, since this is a replacement schedule form which "is identical to part one sent to us by state selective service headquarters."
