$200,000 in real estate and $50,000 in personal property.

All this he had made in Eau

Claire in 10 years from 1856 to 1866. His wife's age is given as 38, while Sarah's age is given as 23 and Joe Thorp's as 19. A mother at 38, with a daughter of 23 seems hardly correct. Whether Mrs. Thorp's age was revised downwards or the daughter's upwards, or both, is hard to say, but as Mrs. Thorp and daughter were in Norway at the time they must be absolved from doing

Then to Europe and a large family menage to Europe and took a villa in southern France. Here Ole

Bull fell out with the family and went on a concert tour while the Thorps returned to Madison. For two years Ole Bull and Sarah were separated, then in 1876 Sarah went to Norway and was joyfully received. She brought Ole Bull back in time to see something of the centennial and Mrs. Thorp's triumphs and they "lived happily ever

Like Alexander, Mrs. Thorp

then resolved to spread her conquest farther and took the family to Cambridge where she rented the home of James

Russell Lowell, American

minister to England. Here Ole Bull visited much with Longfellow, appeared on programs

Wendell Holmes, and here a surprise party was given him on his 70th birthday, Feb. 5,

1870. It was his last notable appearance there and left a spell never forgotten by the distinguished company present. He let his violin speak for him and, said James T. Fields:

heart an answer, a swan song of melody, on which, as upon a great river, we were carried away into dreamland, into Valhalla and the halls

Died in 1871

died at his magnificent home at Lysoen, an island near his earlier island home of Vales-trand. The great poet and orator Bjorne Bjornson gave the eulogy at the funeral at-

In Madison Ole Bull's chief cronies among his nationality were Prof. Rasmus B. Anderson, whom he took with him to Norway twice, B. W. Suckow, Madison publisher, who had been one of his secretaries at Oleana, and John

A. Johnson, Madison manufacturer. These are noted in Smith's story, as well as scores of celebrities of the of his people as a great patriot who uplifted and glorified his country's name. Says

"The strongly nationalistic and romantic coloring of much of the music, poetry, drama, and fiction produced in Norway in the middle of the 19th century and later is in large part traceable to the in-American patriot. It is probably safe to say that in his latter years his heart was more in America than in his native Norway, with which he really had not been en rapport since first leaving it. It was perhaps dear to him only in a sentimental sense as the "lost land of youth" is always dear to nostalgic age, but in his heart he had become really American.

He was equally a great fluence of Ole Bull."

Smith:

Ole Bull lives in the hearts tended by 25,000 people.

The following year Ole Bull of Odin."

"He played with his whole

Emerson and Oliver

In 1874 Thorp took Ole Bull

it. Thorp was really 58.

'Madcap Fiddler,' Famed Ole Bull, Comes to Life in Smith's Book

By A. O. BARTON The Life of Ole Bull, By Mortimer Smith, Princeton University Press,

At last the world has caught up with Thackeray in one of his discoveries. As early as 1855 Thackeray wrote after a visit to Longfellow's house in Cambridge that he had met a madcap fiddler named Ole Bull and that he was "quite a figure for a book.' This volume by Mortimer Smith meets that challenge of nearly a century ago. And it carries out the suggestion of depicting him as a "character," which Ole Bull was in a most arresting sense. While possibly a bit late in appearing, it is not untimely, as it marks the centenary of Bull's first coming to America. It was in 1843 that Ole Bull landed in the United States armed with a poem of introduction by Henrik Wergeland saying he (Ole Bull) could strike the chains of slavery from the black man with his bow, or stop the Susquehanna from flowing—"if he would." Bold words these, but Longfellow in his "Tales of a Wayside Inn." wrote in a similar vein later of the wizard of the

Not a Musical Biography The author makes it plain that his is not a musical biography, but a study of Ole Bull as a man and a patriot. It is the first full length portrait of Ole Bull in English. Thackeray probably had no intuition of movies that were to come, but his appraisal was essentially prophetic of the subjects possibilities. Such intuition, however, may have inspired the present author, for a Chi-cago reviewer says, "I don't see how Hollywood can resist a fling at this picturesque

This story of Ole Bull will be of a peculiarly intimate interest to Wisconsin readers and particularly to Madison people since Ole Bull's second wife was a Madison girl and Madison was a second home to him the greater part of the last decade of his life, in-so-far as he had a home, for he never stayed in one place long. As John Muir left the University of Wisconsin on a "ramble" which, in effect, lasted until the end of his days, so Ole Bull left his native Norway at the age of 18 and became a wandering world minstrel the rest of his

Truimphs Galore

The half century that followed his progress was a continuous succession of triumphs, interspersed with many vicissitudes, adventures and dangers, from shipwreck, fire, flood, cold, robbery, panic, and revolution, but he was never long interrupted by them, thanks to an iron constitution and imaginative daring. It is this story that the author tells, while constantly holding up the picture of Bull as a vivid, intriguing, lovable personality and ardent patriot, rather than a great musical artist of unrivaled sway. It is a galloping storyjumping from continent to continent - told in the approved modern biographical pattern, with no little levity and gayety, with high lights on many dramatic situations. and well suited to the subject, for Ole Bull was essentially and always a showman, much as his contemporary P. T. Barnum. Began in Italy Bull's long career of triumph began, not in his native Norway, but in Italy. Born in Bergen in 1810, he left for Germany to study music at 18, then was drawn to Paris, the glamorous magnet of all artists of the time. After many hardships there and a minor triumph, which gave him self-confidence, he boldly struck out for Italy, in 1833, by way of Switzerland, as had Napoleon before him, and in a campaign as brief and brilliant as that of the Corsican genius in another field, he completely conquered that sunny land and its warm-hearted people. At Bologna he was drawn in triumph through the streets like a conqueror of old, himself but 24 at the time. In 1836, accompanied by his new French wife, he made a triumphal tour of the British Isles. From then on one European capital after another welcomed him, even to far-off Russia, where he traveled, as had Napoleon, in his own horse coach fitted up for living as well.

Actress Suggested Trip It was Fanny Ellsler, American actress of his own age, who suggested the American 1843 to him which lasted two years. Nearly a dozen other trips were made by him between Europe and America.

The author says little or nothing of Ole Bull's visits to Wisconsin or Madison previous to his marriage to Sarah Thorp in 1870, A digression by this reviewer may therefore not be amiss at this point.

Ole Bull's first appearance in Madison was on July 1, 1856, when he gave a concert in the Baptist church, the identical auditorium of which is incorporated in the present office of the Bell Telephone company on South Carroll street. Appearing with him at the time was a 13-year old Italian girl named Adeline Patti, a younger sister of the wife of his manager, Maurice Strakosch. This girl was destined to become the foremost singer of the 19th century, with a longer sway than that of the celebrated Jenny Lind. The crude little city of Madison, incorporated only that thus entertained two artists that were to fill the world with their fame.

Yet the Madison newspapers of the time gave them barely a two-line notice the next day, saying they were well received. In fact, little Patti had sung in Madison before. Just a year thereafter, on July 1 and 2, 1857, Ole Bull gave two concerts and two matinces in Madison.

Returned to Madison

In January, 1868, Ole Bull returned to Madison from a tour of the California mining camps where he had been crowned with a wreath of diamonds. He was met at the West Madison depot by 100 torchbearers with whom he trudged up town, disdaining the belated sleigh sent for him He had already been through the fiasco of attempting to found a great Norwegian colony in the wilds of Pennsylvania and had visited and captivated the literati of New England. He became a guest at the home of State Sen. J. G. Thorp, of Eau Claire, a wealthly lumberman, who had recently bought the home on E. Gilman st. now the executive residence. Now a widower, he became greatly interested in Sarah Thorp, then 18, whose musical ability prompted him to have her sent to New York for further study. The author devotes many pages and chapters to Mrs. Amelia Chapman Thorp, whom he pictures as a strongwilled, resourceful and intriguing woman who put over Ole Bull's marriage to her daughter and afterwards that of her son to a daughter of Longfellow. She may have been all that, but she must have had persuasive charm, for in 1876, as chairman of the Wisconsin women's exhibit at the Philadelphia centennial she carried out one of the most brilliant and successful projects ever accomplished in

Wisconsin Returns to Norway

However, when Ole Bull returned to Norway in 1869, Mrs. Thorp and her daughter followed him and were his guests for a year at his island home, Valestrand. In June, 1870, Ole Bull and Sarah Thorp were quietly married in the American consulate and on their return to Madison in September were remarried by Rev. Charles H. Richards, "according to American custom.' The author describes the brilliant reception that followed and which stands unrivalled to this day in Madison history.

This is not in the author's story, but in the U.S. census of 1870 Senator Thorp is listed as 50 years old and worth

University of Wisconsin home booklet discusses such wartime problems as rationing, food waste, and dehydrated foods, outlines food nutrients, and gives tips and tables on preparing well-balanced meals at low cost. The writers consider better breakfasts for Americans, special diets, lunch boxes, and food conservation methods in practical

Prof. C. A. Elvehjem, university biochemist, wrote an introduction to the work.

suggesting that the book be made required reading for

In their chapter on rationing, Mrs. Huseby and Miss Sylvester state that "in some respects food rationing may be considered a blessing." It not only provides fair distribution of limited foodstuffs during wartime, they say, but also "the point system has accomplished much to teach the housewife economic and nutritional values. She has been compelled to compare point value, nutritional value, and money value of the foods to be purchased."

high school pupils.

chapters.

The up-to-date, 120-page economics department.

Education Week 2 City Teachers Broadcasts Set Write Book Three American Education

Week radio programs spon-Two Madison public school sored by the Madison public teachers are authors of a new schools will be broadcast this book on nutrition, "We're Goweek from station WIBA. ing to Be Better Nourished," published by the College En-

The Rev. Oscar Adam will present "Education for World trance Book Co. Understanding" Sunday at 2 Irene Brewster Huseby. p. m. On Monday at 9 p. m. West high school home econ-Maj. Charles Evenns will talk on "Education in Wartime." omist and cafeteria supervisor, and Beatrice Garnet Sylvester. Supt. Philip H. Falk will have of the East high home econas the subject of his address omics department, are the au-Thursday at 9:30 p. m. "Eduthors. The introduction to nucation to Win and Secure the trition is illustrated by Agnes Olson Leindorf, former East high art teacher now with the

The National Education assn, will sponsor a broadcast by Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer, author and journalist, and M. B. Clayton, British educator, over the Columbia Broadcasting system Monday at 2:45 p. m. CWT.

Sellout Expected

for Cossack Chorus Within two hours after the opening of the sale of tickets for the second night performance of the General Platoff Don Cossack Chorus in the Wisconsin Union theater, Saturday night, Nov. 20, more than 200 tickets were sold.

In this rush on the theater box office, Oscar Dammen and Anne Basacca sold more than two tickets a minute. The sale has continued high and Walter Pancoe, concert manager, predicts a sellout in the near future. At present, however, good seats are still available.

Euterpe Club to Give Scandinavian Music

Scandinavian music will be performed by members of the Euterpe club at a meeting at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the home

Soldiers Read Good Books

Librarians Report on Their Tastes

In answer to the question "What do soldiers read?" Margaret Nordholm, head of the circulation department of the Madison Free library, says that although there is a great demand for recent books on radio and airplanes, men in the armed forces do not differ greatly in their tastes from the general public.
"There is little inconsequential reading done by these men," she goes on to say. Their requests offer surprising variety. Mixed with demands for 'good books to read" are calls for books on Swedish. Emerson's essays, material on Robert E. Lee, "Wisdom of China and India" by Lin Yutang, and recent publications on woodworking. One young soldier selected critically from all available books on magic, skillfully vanishing a halfdollar for the astonished attendant at the same time. 331 Register Exactly 331 members of the armed forces have registered as borrowers of the Madison Free library since January, 1943, Helen E. Farr, city librarian, reports, while from August through December 1942, there were 178 soldier and sailor registrations.

Ranging in rank from privates to majors, the majority of borrowers are from Truax Field, with representations from the U. S. Armed Forces institute, the U. S. navy, and recruiting station personnel. A comparatively large number of the men of the Army Specialized Training Program are included, considering the recency of their arrival in Mad-

Women in service account for less than 3 per cent of the number of registrants, the records show, with WACs outnumbering WAVES and members of the nurse corps. Soldiers' wives, however, not included in the above figures, are numerous and active readers at the main and branch libraries.

Get Special Cards

Special borrower's cards are issued for 4 months, renewable at the end of that period, to men and women in the armed forces. Reregistrations are common. Wives of men in service are enrolled as, regular borrowers.

Expressions of appreciation from service men range from oral expressions and postcards to formal letters from transferred men. The following paragraph from a private at a California post, paying tribute to the hospitality of Madison and its public agencies, is typ-

"I greatly enjoyed the op-portunity to borrow books from the library . but then such a gesture of courtesy on your part was indeed in accord with the reception and genuine hospitality that was shown us at all times in Madison. We all feel that we shall never again 'hit' a town where we shall be entertained so lavishly and accepted so read-

Music Programs Listed for Week:

Marches from many lands will be the subject of the programs planned by Katherine Jones and Leroy Klose for this week's "Music for School and Home" programs broadcast over WIBA at 4:45 p. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday.

Following is the series:

Monday, marches of America — "King Cotton March," Sousa; "Semper Fideles," Sousa; "Stars and Stripes Forever," Sousa; "National Em-blem March," Bagley; Tuesday, marches from foreign lands-"Turkish March," Mozart; "Hungarian March," Berloiz; "Marche Slav," Tschalkowsky;

Wednesday, marches used as processionals — "Coronation March," Meyerbeer; "Pomp and Circumstance," Elgar; "Procession of the Sad-ar," Ippolitov-Ivanov; Thursday, marches for soldiers -"Soldiers Chorus," Gounod; "Marche Militaire," Schubert, "Stouthearted Men," Romberg, "Onward Christian Soldiers," Sullivan; of Mrs. O. H. Anson, 1229 E. Johnson st. Mrs. J. Johnson will be program chairman.

Friday, marches for children-"March of the Toys," Herbert; "March of the Lead Soldiers," Pierne, "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," Jesse; "Children's March," Grainger.

Works of Grieg, Thrane, Jensen, and Sibelius, plus one by Delibes, will be given by Mrs. J. W. Snell, and Mrs. J. W. Watson, piano; Mrs. E. D. Brown, Mrs. V. V. Varney, Mrs. R. M. S. Heffner, Mrs. Robert Erickson, and Mrs. A. D. Hasler, voice, and Mrs. L. C. Gunderson, violin.

ART MATERIALS Meuer Art Co.

Abrahamsen and Portrait of Lighty beside his portrait of Dr. William Lighty, professor emeritus of extension teaching at the University of Wisconsin.

Abrahamsen Exhibit Opens Today at Historical Museum

When Christian Abrahamsen, the Norwegian portrait painter, is asked about his life work, he begins at once to list all the qualifications needed for success as a portrait artist.

Illustrating his ideas, Abrahamsen will show around 50 pieces of his work in an exhibition at the Wisconsin Historical society's museum, from this afternoon through Dec. 15, including paintings, drawings,

Players to Give

Ibsen's 'Ghosts'

Wisconsin players' second production of the year, Henrik Ibsen's "Ghosts," will be staged Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, in the Wisconsin

Union theater with Ronald E.

staged in 1881 it raised a furor among the critics which for some time overshadowed its excellence as a play. A difference in standards of moral secrecy in that day brought a deluge of angry criticism down

To modern intelligence,

"Ghosts" is far from being an immoral play. Viewing it without prejudice, the present-day play-goer sees it as highly moral, since it stresses the necessity for facing the truth,

Alving, a woman who, in spite of her better judgment, tried to shield her profligate husband in the eyes of the narrow social world in which they both lived. During the course of the play she sees quite clearly the results of her at-

The Wisconsin Players, according to Mitchell, are not producing this play because it once shocked and startled audiences in London and New York, but because the play is exciting, dramatic, and moving.

Costumes used will be those of the late 19th century, since an Ibsen play, universal in its dramatic force, still gains by being set in the atmosphere

To intensify the closed-in quality of the Alving house, the single set of the play is triangular in shape, the apex of the triangle being the stove

-a familiar object in Norwegian homes. Outside the rain pours steadily until the very end of the play, when the Tickets are on sale now at the theater box office. Cou-

U. W. Symphony

to Play Tonight

In its first appearance of the season, the University of Wisconsin symphony orchestra conducted by Prof. Carl Brick-en will appear in the fourth of a series of free Sunday night programs tonight at 8 in Music

The orchestra will play Shostakovitch's fifth symphony and A. Goedicke's orchestration of Bach's "Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor.'

New

Victor Records

521 State St. G. 2440 BRING US YOUR SCRAP RECORDS

CUCKOO CLOCK

loyd del Castillo ....

dawn breaks brightly.

pons are exchangeable.

of Ibsen's own day.

tempts at concealment.

"Ghosts" is the story of Mrs.

no matter how unpleasant.

upon the playwright.

When the play was first

Mitchell directing.

miscellaneous pieces and projects. During the reception, music will ble (WMAQ). "The Moscow Pact," be played by Helen Holden, violin- Sir Bernard Pares, professor of ist and Leo Steffins, pianist, of the Russian history, University of Lon-University of Wisconsin graduate don; Profs. Walter Johnson, Quinschool of music. Assisting at the reception will

Mrs. E. W. Hamilton, Mrs. E. M. Gilbert, Mrs. Peter J. Annen, Mrs. Irving Tressler, Susan B. Davis and Ruth Allcott. Paints State Personages

Abrahamsen, who came from Norway in his late 20s, has paintpeople, including Magnus Swenson, Gov. Walter Kohler, E. A. Birge, Dr. darry Steenbock, Dr. Joseph Schaler. The main essential in portrait Prof. A. C. Garnett.

painting," Abrahamsen feels, "is to show at once not only the likeness of an individual but the faith- Music ful reflection of the sitter's lifework and personality."

is off to different pastures. The historical museum's ex- drina," "Poeme" by Fibich.

PROF. RONALD E. MITCHELL Fair art exhibit in Chicago. He is | Midsummer Night's Dream. a sculptor, too, and one of his designs, that of Illinois' Unknown

Abrahamsen brought some of his landscape paintings with him from Norway, but his childhood works are now on exhibit in the museum at Bergen, Norway.

To Visit Europe

After the war, the artist plans to visit Europe. When he is in Italy, he will deliver the finished portrait of Count Sforza, recently returned to that country.

Serving as patrons and patronesses at the museum's exhibition will be Gov. and Mrs. Walter S. Goodland, Pres. and Mrs. Clarence Dykstra, Dean and Mrs. Edwin B. Fred, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph C. Bolz, Mr. and Mrs. John Steuart Curry, Jullia Grady, L. Irene Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Bricken, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Varnum, Mr. and Mrs. Oskar F. L. Hagen, Eleanor Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Asher Hobson and Dr. and Mrs. Hans H.

Olivia de Haviland Asks Contract Termination

HOLLYWOOD - (U.P.) Olivia de Haviland shed a few tears Saturday as she began her legal fight to end her seven-year contract with Warner Bros. studios.

The petite brunette actress testified that the contract, which was signed in April, 1936, already had expired. The studios claimed it had six months to go because she was suspended several times during the contract period.

"Isn't it a fact that you refused a role because of your love for a man who has gone to China?" the studio attorney asked,

Miss De Haviland pushed back a few tears. She said that she wanted to spend as much time as possible with her unidentified friend, because he was going to China for the duration and "might very well die."

The case was continued.

Miss Andrews to Play Armistice Tune Sunday

In observance of the coming Armistice day, Ruth Pilger Andrews will play Pietro Yon's "Hymn of Glory" in her organ recital at Luther Memorial church at 10:30 a. m. today. This composition, written in 1921, was dedicated to

What's on the Air

Today's Aces Back on the Air

5 p. m.-First Nighter (WGN): 'A Thousand Pardons," premiere of series starring Barbara Luddy. 5:45 p. m.—Little Show (WGN): "The Sultan of Shudders." 0 0 0

Religion

9 p. m.-National Radio Pulpit (WMAQ): Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, "What Is a Man's Due?"... Church of the Air (WBBM): the Rev. W. L. McCormick, Bethlehem Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. 11 a. m. — People's Church

'War Is Not an Excuse." 1:30 p. m. - National Vespers (WENR): Dr. Harry Emerson Fos- Variety

dick, "The Power to Turn Evil Into Good." 5 p. m. - Catholic Hour

"Foundation of Peace: the Moral

Discussion

11 a. m.-World Front (WMAQ): Robert Magidoff, correspondent recently returned from Russia, guest observer . . . Invitation to Learning (WBBM): Aristotle's "Politics" discussed by scholars.

12:15 p. m.-Labor for Victory Drama (WMAQ); report of CIO convention in Philadelphia.

12:30 p. m .- Chicago Round Tacy Wright, Chicago university 1:15 p. m.—Distinguished Guests (WGN): Burton Holmes, traveler and lecturer, "Our Russian Allies." 2 p. m. - Rationing Report (WMAQ): guest, Paul V. McNutt, head of War Manpower Commis-3:30 p. m.—University Forum ed many of Wisconsin's famous (WHA): "Can Strikes in Wartime people, including Magnus Swen- Be Justified?" William Spohn, newly-appointed War Labor Board arbitrator of this area; Prof. Selig Perlman; Dr. Arnold Zander; chestra (WMAQ): Brahms' "Hun-The Norwegian artist, whose garian Dance No. 5," Lehar's (WBBM): "The Road to Dover," works are largely portraits, is "Merry Widow" and "Gold and broadcast from London.

No. 5," Lehar's (WBBM): "The Road to Dover," works are largely portraits, is "Merry Widow" and "Gold and broadcast from London.

Silver Waltz," "Evening Star" 1:30 p. m.—Cltizens of Tomorfrom "Tannhauser," "La Golon- row (WGN): salute to St. Patrick hibit is Abrahamsen's first in 1:30 p. m. — John Charles Justi Madison although he has been Thomas (WIBA): "Sympathy," club painting Wisconsin subjects for a "The Surrey With the Fringe on long time. In 1933, two of his Top," "Oh, What a Beautiful (WMAQ): "Travels of the Potaworks were chosen for the World's Morning," "Scherzo" from "A to." Padriac Colum, Irish poet,

2 p. m. - New York Philharmonic (WBBM): Overture to "Egsoldier, is a monument in Forest mont," Beethoven; "Symphony in Park, Chicago.

G Major," Haydn; "First Symman, guest speaker. phony in C Minor," Brahms; Raymond Massey, guest.

3:15 p. m. — University Choral Hour (WHA): 70-voice chorus, directed by William Pfeiffer. 3:30 p. m. - Andre Kostelanetz (WBBM): Jane Froman in first radio appearance since receiving injuries in Lisbon plane crash; Zino Francescatti, French, violin-ist; "Besame Mucho," "The Man I Love," "If You Please," Kriesler medley.

4 p. m .- Family Hour (WBBM): tribute to marine corps; "Say It With Music," aria from "Tosca," "People Will Say We're in Love," Schubert's "Serenade," selections from Herbert's "The Red Mill." Symphony (WIBA): salute to Russia on anniversary of Soviet, "The Internationale." 4:30 p. m. - Musical Steelmakers (WENR): "For the First Time," "I've Got Sixpence," "My Dream of Tomorrow," "Sweet Georgia Brown." 5:05 p. m. — Saludos Amigos (WCFL): Latin American music.

6:30 p. m. Bandwagon (WIBA): Kay Kyser, guest.

...7:30 p. m.—Keepsakes (WLS):
"My Heart Stood Still," "Mighty

Lak a Rose," "The Spring Round-"I'll See You Again." 8 p. m.—Cleveland Symphony (WGN): Schubert's "Symphony

No. 7 in C Major"... Merry-Go-Round (WIBA): "I Heard You Cried Last Night," "Carlson's Raid-ers Song," "My Heart Tells Me," "The Last Time I Saw Paris." 8:15 p. m. — Basin Street (WENR): Louis Armstrong, guest.

8:30 p. m. - Familiar Music (WIBA): "Farewell to Dreams," the American Legion.

"In the Valley of Shadow," by Van Denman Thompson, teacher at De Pauw university in Greencastle, Ind., will open the recital.

FAIR ENOUGH LEOMINSTER, Mass .-- (U.P.) -- A want ad offering a reward for the return of a lost pig read in part, the pig weighs 29½ pounds, and please return for sentimental reasons. If you can't return the pig, invite me to the barbecue."

"Perfect Sunday afternoon entertainment" Radio Daily

America's Greatest Baritons WITH John Nesbitt

Westinghouse Program Station WIBA Today at 1:30

"The Night Was Made for Love,"
"Song of Songs," "Among My Souvenirs," . . . Star Theater (WBBM): James Melton, Diane Courtney, with Oscar Levant as guest; "If You Please." "Siboney." "Celeste Aida," "The Lost Chord," selections from "Oklahoma" 9 p. m. - Hour of Charm with Lorraine Elliott, guest singer. 2 2 2

3 p. m.-Fun Valley (WENR): Al Pearce and Gang, with Maxine Seemon, radio actress, as guest. (WMAQ): the Rev. Timothy L. 4 p. m.—Moose Fireside Party Bouscaren, West Baden college, (WGN): Griff Williams orchestra and chorus; dramatization of life > braves Mojave desert sand to entertain marines.

(WIBA): with Bob Burns. 9 p. m. - Gertrude Lawrence (WENR): with Orson Welles.

2 p. m.—Encore (WHA): WHA

5 p. m. — Silver Theater (WBBM): John Garfield in "Cnce

5:30 p. m.—Great Gildersleeve (WIBA): has meat point troubles.

9:30 p. m .- Thin Man (WBBM); double murder and a shakedown 10:30 p. m .- Hollywood Academy Award (WENR): Elaine Bar-rymore in "What Does It Profit."

11:30 a. m. -- Paul Lavalle Or- Miscellaneous

11:30 a. m.—Transatlantie Call drina," "Poeme" by Fibich. academy, with talk by Brother

1:30 p. m. — John Charles Justin Matthew, and school glee with talk by Brother

3:30 p. m.-Lands of the Free

9:30 p. m.-They Give Their Lives (WGN): "Food Fights for

Mondaytime

(WMAQ): Bonita Granville in "A Bill of Divorcement."

orthy's "Forsythe Saga." the Air (WBBM): "The Doctor's tra (WBBM): Suzanne Sten, mezzo - soprano guest; "Habanera" from "Carmen," "Huguette Waltz," "John Peel," "Song of the Vagabonds.

RECORDS NOW WHILE STOCKS ARE COMPLETE

Christmas Carols by the Lynn Murray Singers—4 records in al-bum, $2.63.

Charles Dickens Christmas Carol. On three records in album — Basil Rathbone and Hollywood Cast, Set 521, $3.68.

Twas The Night Before Christ-mas (Decca) by Fred Waring, Glee Club, and orchestra. Popu-lar carols on 4 records in al-burn, $2.63.

This is but a partial list of the ords both in album and single now available.

Players

Electric Record Players are available at $21.95 and $49.95 (automatic) playing through your radio—or self amplified at $59.95 and $61.50. Both wood and fabricated portable cases.

(WIBA): "Sunday, Monday or Al-ways." "The Old Refrain" "Ay, Ay, Ay," "Vilia." 9:30 p. m.—Bob Crosby (WIBA):

Sports 2 p. m .- Football: Green Bay Packers vs. Chicago Bears (WTMJ-(WJJD): Dr. Preston Bradley, WIND)., of a typical American boy.

6 p. m.—Jack Benny (WIBA):

7 p. m.—Bergen and McCarthy

Players dramatize "Jane Eyie." 2:30 p. m.—Hot Copy (WENR): 'Ranch of the Dead Man," Nazi intrigue in Mexico.
4:30 p. m. — The Shadow

(WGN):"The Ship of Doom." Upon a Weekend."

8 p. m.—Digest (WBBM): Joan Blondell in "Maisie Gordon," story of a cashier in a Bowery theater.

11:15 p. m. — Pacific Story (WMAQ): Philippine Indepen-

1:30 p. m. - Citizens of Tomor-

9:45 a. m. - Star Playhouse

2 p. m.-College of the Air (WHA): WHA Players in Gals-2:30 p. m.—American School of

5:15 p. m .-- Lyn Murray Orches-

Your Christmas

Six Of The Best Known Christmas Carols, sung by Victor Mix-ed Chorus. With violin, harp and organ. Three records in album, $2.10.

Carols For Christmas Eve, by the Victor Chapel Choir, Four records in album P 96, $2.63.

large number of Christmas rec-

Record

