KEEN SENSE OF TOUCH HELPS BLIND CAVE FISH FIND FOOD

SUNLIGHT goes down into the ocean to a depth of almost a quarter of a mile. A person can see through the water fairly well at a depth of 100 feet, but the farther down he goes the more dim the light.

At length a depth is reached where no light comes from the sun. The water is as dark as black ink!

Some fish travel up and down a great deal, from the surface of through their eyes, thus making the sea to a depth of more than up for the dim world in which 500 feet.
