Uncle Ray's Corner A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK: MORE FROM PRIVATE PAUL ESTERDAY a letter from Private Paul was printed in part. He is in training at an Oklahoma army camp, and he told of going on a trip with other soldiers one evening. After digging slit trenches, the men put up their tents, having trouble because of the darkness and two practice gas attacks. Here is the rest of the letter: "At 8 o'clock that night we found it a job to eat out of a mess kit in broad daylight, but in the darkiness I had to handle three pieces of mess equipment, includng a cup that holds about a quart. "We were supposed to be in enemy territory, and couldn't talk while lining up for chow, about 10 feet apart. We had to guess which side of us the food was coming from. I suppose the men who were hand-

I suppose the men who were handing it out were guessing where it was going. My rifle, kept sliding off my shoulder.

"We couldn't put our rifles down, and we were doubtful about sitting down, since that area is covered with berry bushes. Finally I chose a place. It was on top of a thorn bush, but I was tired and felt that to sit there was better than to stand up. I had placed my quartcup, filled with tea, on the ground, and was thinking of how I would enjoy it, but when I reached for it, I upset the tea, giving it to the upset the tea, giving it to the 12:48 Accordion Parade 1:00 NBC Those We Love 1:20 NBC John Charles Thomas thorn bush.

"After the mess, a war game took place and I had the good fortune to make prisoners of two of the 'enemies.' At the point of my 12:00 Noon Musicale quarters, and along the way I talked to them as if they were bums.' When we got to headquarters. I found out that one of my prisoners was a captain and the other a colonel!

"It was all right, though. We were having a real war game. Our lieutenant was tickled because those officers had been trying to break into our area, and he spoke about it in class the next day."

Thank you, Private Paul, for telling about the games which you boys play. I believe we all agree that training for the army isn't exactly a soft job.
