the rule of Spain. When runaway slaves went there, they obtained freedom, and with the Seminoles, they started many towns and villages.

Most of the settlements had Indian names, such as Welika and Wewoka, but others were given English names. These included Fowl Town, Big Hammock and Negro Town. One was known as Mulatto Girl's Town and another as Bowlegs' Town. In 1818 General Andrew Jackson invaded Florida with 3,000 American troops to punish the Seminoles who had made raids on American border villages. The next year the United States prepared a treaty for the purchase of Florida from Spain. This treaty was finally approved in 1821.

Jackson defeated the Seminoles, but most of the warriors escaped. In later years there was long warfare with these mixed Indians and Negroes, who hid in the Everglade swamps and were hard to reach. They were defeated at last, and most of them were sent west of the Mississippi. In a recent year there were about 1,500 persons classed as Seminoles in Oklahoma. Florida has a small number of them to
