METHODS OF ACCOUNTING A federal income tax return may be prepared in accordance with any method of accounting regularly used by the taxpayer which correctly reflects his income and expenditures. Two main methods of keeping accounts are followed, (a) the cash receipts and disbursements method and (b) the accrual method. Ordinarily, nearly all individuals use the cash method.

TIVELY received (whether in tire rationing board. cash or property or services), and drawn upon by him at any time. dered by the taxpayer would not constitute income until paid, nor would a bill rendered to the taxpayer be expense until paid. There Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., voters' meeting, would, however, be constructive receipt of a payment if a valid check is received during the tax-able year even though the check may not have been deposited or of cashed within that period.

Under the accrual method, net income is measured in a broad sense by the excess of income earned over expenses incurred.

These letters are interesting and I wish we had space for all of them, but the best I can do today is to give paragraphs from a few. "I, too, saw that comet," writes Mr. William H. Austin. "I was a young man 18 years of age living scrapbook.) at Ilion, N. Y., at the time, I got up in the middle of the night to watch it. There was a great deal about Halley's Comet in the papers before it appeared in 1910. I used to tell my daughters that if it was anything like the 1882 comet they would see a wonderful sight. When Halley's Comet did appear. I was disappointed. It was not to be compared with the Great Comet of 1882.
