BLONDIE—MRS. BUMSTEAD'S PROBLEM CHILD—

EX-SHIPYARD WORKER, PAST 38, IS INDUCTED

SALEM, Ore., Mar. 9—(UP)—State Director of Selective Service Col. Elmer V. Wooten says that men 38 years old or older could be drafted into the Army, in relating the experience of a Portland shipyard worker.

The man quit his job on reaching his 38th birthday anniversary, and told his employer he couldn't be drafted because of his age. The U. S. employment service requested him to return to his work, but he said he wouldn't.

The man's draft board became concerned about the case, and appealed to State Selective Service headquarters, which obtained permission to draft the man.

He's in the Army now. His wife and children will get dependency allowance.

IS BOMB CASUALTY NEW YORK, March 9—(UP)
