Thurman to Address

Uncle Ray's Corner SUPPLIES LUMBER, SUGAR AND BEAUTY

If someone asked you to name your favorite tree, what would you answer?

Very likely you would find it hard to pick one special tree as "the best of all." For my part, I like the sturdy oak and the grace-ful elm. I find a special charm in fir trees and greatly admire the mighty redwoods of the Pacific coast.

Yet of all the trees I like, my first choice probably would go to the maple.

People speak of "the maple," "the oak" and "the elm," but each of those names stands for a tree on this continent, too. I am thinkfamily. We have more than a ing chiefly of the "vine maples" dozen kinds of maple trees which which grow from northern Caligrew on this continent when the formia to British Columbia. Some first white settlers came from of them have trunks, or stems,

If we count the maple trees of Most of our maple trees, howall continents, there are about 150 ever, grow to heights of from 30 kinds. Most of these are natives to 100 feet. In some sections there of Europe and Asia. Great Britain are sugar maples as much as 120 has only one native maple, a small feet tall. expect, it is called "the small wood, beautiful leaves and sweet maple."
