round Pair Of Pants

Who was dressed to kill is the problem that confronts "Mr, and Mrs. North" when they find an empty pair of pants for a clue on the comedy-mystery show, Wednesday at 7 p. m., over station WEAF. A man without pants, running down a hotel fire escape, adds to the confusion when he tries to prove that he had nothing to do with the murder of the victim-his wife. The two popular stars have been given more exciting material than ever in this colorful action film, announcements indicate.

The story, an original by Patricia Harper, deals with a battle between law-abiding ranchers and ruthless land-grabbers. Elmer Clifton and Morgan B. Cox penned the screen play which includes several musical interludes. Fuzzy Knight, cowboy comic, who has the leading featured role, sings "The Hatches and The Morgans," and "I'd Ruther be Footloose An' Free," both composed by Oliver Drake, the picture's associate pro-
