QUILNA

To those in show business, Los Angeles is known as a tough town to please. Consequently, when a show plays there for 36 laughpacked weeks, it is bound to have something. That's what the musical, "Hey, Rookie," did when it was produced by the Yard Birds of Fort MacAithur.

Hollywood bought it, adapted it to the screen and is showing it at the Quilna theatre with a cast of glittering personalities and sensational specialty acts. Advance reeven outdoing its stage predecessor as the khaki-go-wackiest soldier show of them all. Co-featured is "Nine Girls."

LYRIC

All-out excitement and fast diamatic action are promised in that newest outdoor adventure film "The Lone Star Trail," coming Thursday to the Lyric theatre. The story, dealing with the battle against crookedness in the cattlecountry, is said to be one of the cent in the state and two of the most colorful yet devised for costars Johnny Mack Brown and Tex per cent.

Brown has the role of a frontiersman who is framed and sent! to prison for the alleged theft of a sizeable fortune Ritter is seen as the secret service man from the U. S. Marshal's office who sides Kenneth Taylor, Elizabeth Clark paroted and comes back from prison to "square accounts."
