

Pair Of Features Being Offered Patrons At Lyric

Arthur Lake, better known as Dagwood Bumstead of the "Blondie" series, cavorts his way thru amusing happenings in "Sailor's Holiday," accompanied by Bob Haynes and Jane Lawrence. The film is now co-featuring with "Stormy Weather" at the Lyric.

Now showing at the Ohio is "Broadway Rhythm" in technicolor.

Quilna fans are now viewing "The Fighting Seabees" and "My Best Gal."

"It Happened Tomorrow" and "The Contender" are now playing at the Sigma.

Irene Dunne and Spencer Tracy do the honors in "A Guy Named Joe" now sharing billing with "Memphis Belle" at the State.

Currently offered at the Lima Drive-In theatre is "The Fallen Sparrow."

QUILNA

Crack technicians were selected by Producer Albert J. Cohen to shoot Naval Construction Battalion filming scenes on a "catch-as-catch-can" basis for the great as a starring attraction them-which is now showing at the Quilna theatre. The crews of carefully selected technically trained men were required to work at Port Huemeen as the Seabees were at work.

Starring John Wayne, Susan Hayward and Dennis O'Keefe, "The Fighting Seabees" is the first picture of its kind showing the unsung heroes of the Navy in action who are required to land, set up installations under fire and at the same time defend them.

Sharing billing is "My Best Girl," with Jane Withers and Jimmy Lydon.

LYRIC

Three movie star doubles who toured England five years ago as a starring attraction themselves, today are back together again for a new movie, the hilarious "Sailor's Holiday," which has 20 such star impersonations as part of its story on the screen of the Lyric theatre.

The three tourists are Margaret Bryson, Ezelle Poule and Tom Herbert, who are, respectively, portraying Loletta Young, ZaSu Pitts and Hugh Herbert.

Tom Herbert, who is Hugh's younger brother, recounts that he and the Misses Bryson and Poule were billed as "The Hollywood Star Doubles" when they played London and the English provinces in 1938 and were treated as royally as they were the stars themselves.

Cobilled is "Stormy Weather."

WASHINGTON, May 15—(INS)—Continuation of the committee on un-American activities despite the loss of its colorful chairman, Rep. Martin Dies (D) Tex., was urged today by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, ranking Republican member of the committee, no matter what complexion the new congress may have.

"The congress and the people must never let their guard down against our enemies," declared Thomas in the wake of Dies' announcement that he would withdraw from congress because of a serious throat ailment.

"The weapon of exposure which has been so effectively used by our committee," said Thomas, "must be maintained thru a congressional committee."

NAVY TELLS OF EPIC SALVAGE SYSTEM IS ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, May 15—(AP)—The Navy, calling it "an epic in salvage history," told today the tug Choctaw battled seas for 24 days to tow the disabled tanker Murfreeboro with a cargo of 4,500,000 gallons of aviation gasoline.

President of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, which opens its 26th semi-annual convention here today, Dr. George Granger Brown of the department of chemical engineering at the University of Michigan, said:

The Murfreesboro, was enroute for the European theatre last February when the El Coston, a Panamanian cargo ship, suffered a steering gear breakdown and crashed into the big tanker. A giant fire started aboard the Murfreesboro and the El Coston also burst into flames.

The fires finally were extinguished and the Choctaw under command of Lt. John D. Garland, Somerville, Mass., began the towing job. The long trip into Bermuda, the world's longest towing job, was made at a speed of less than two miles an hour.
