Karloff Chills Screen With "The Walking Dead"

Hitting the top in chills, shivers, thrills and gripping suspense, "The Walking Dead" starring Boris Karloff, is coming back to the Sigma theatre to play a limited return engagement. "The Walking Dead" was one of Karloff's biggest hits a few seasons back and is based on the weirdest of themes-the story of an electrocuted man who is restored to life.

For the first time since he has faced a motion picture camera, Basil Rathbone wins a broad comedy characterization in "Bathing" Beauty" currently showing at the Ohio theatre and starring Mr. Rathbone, Red Skelton and Esther Williams.

Brought to the screen for the first time in "Man from Frisco" is the dramatic story of the revolutionary changes in the ship-building industry by the necessities of war. Michael O'Shea, Anne Shirley, and Gene Lockhart hold the title roles.

Van Johnson, newest screen sensation, has one of the title roles in 'Two Girls and a Sailor" now playing at the State theatre in which he is starred with two other new screen personalities, Gloria DeHaven and June Allyson.

No dramatic picture ever to reach the screen has equalled in the variety of its far-flung scenic backgrounds as "Trade Winds," now showing at the Lyric theatre with Fredric March and Joan Bennett in the title roles.
