unemployment and blind alley the Wisconsin Education assn. declared today.

Urging children of school age to return to classes with the opening of school, the association warned that the easy-to-get jobs now available to young people are temporary and may not last through this school year.

"When war contracts end. youngsters with little education or technical skill will be the first to lose their jobs," it declared.

The organization termed it wishful thinking" for school age children to say they will earn "big money" now and return to classes when jobs are scarce. Experience has proved that pupils quitting grade or high school do not return in the majority of cases.

Boys about to be drafted were urged to continue their h i g h school training up to the time of their induction.

The association said it was "patriotic" and "in the best in-terests of American democracy" for young people to continue their Guss Murphy, Dublin barber and All-

Ireland champion of Irish dancing, de-clares that Northern Ireland has better dancers than Eirc, and has statted an "educational" program to raise Eire dancing standards.

Boys and girls who quit school Australia expects its 1944 wool erop for jobs "are building a future of to realize $300,000,000.
