

Sydney Greenstreet Guests On "Amos And Andy" Airing

With movie menace Sydney Greenstreet guest star on the second program of the new Amos 'n' Andy series, radio's famed blackface comedians, Freeman (Amos) Gosden and Charles (Andy) Correll, extricate themselves from some terrifying situations, Friday at 9 p. m. EST, over Station WEA.F.

Greenstreet plays a killer, who hides out in a big hotel where the Kingfish has a job as doorman, and Andy is working as a bellhop, but really thinks he is the house detective in disguise.

One of the standout games in the early fall football schedule is the Army-North Carolina clash at Michie stadium, West Point, N. Y. Bill Stern will give the play-by-play description of the game Saturday, over WEA.F. at 1:30 p. m. EST.

Waltzes by Victor Herbert are combined in a melody arranged by Dr. Frank Black, on his concert broadcast on Friday, at 7 p. m. over Station WEA.F. Included are "Kiss Me Again," "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," "A Kiss in the Dark," "Ask Her While the Band Is Playing" and "When You're Away."

Jimmy Durante, who has a nose for news (with room left over for the Times and Sun, too), examines the headlines and comes up

DRY WEATHER STILL DELAYS OHIO CROPS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—(AP)—More than half the state is too dry for fall-sown crops to germinate, the weather bureau reported today.
Meteorologist George W. Minding said that up to Wednesday average rainfall during the preceding week had been only .22 of an inch.
"Rainfall was not general," said Minding, "for it varied from 0.01 of an inch in some sections to 1.00 inches in Norwalk."
Minding said weather stations throughout the state had reported a great deal of wheat already sown, despite the drought, but added that only in Eastern Ohio had any germinated.

DELAYS SEEN AS PRELUDE TO BIG BATTLES AHEAD

By J. R. WILLIAMS
"Success - Conditioned" Public Gloomy Over Setbacks In Holland
By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Substituting for DeWitt Mackenzie, as expected, the defeat at Arnhem and Allied failure to walk thru the Siegfried Line has resulted in widespread belief that the war has gone to pot. Forgetting how we glossed over defeats two and three years ago, we are now "success-conditioned" and every temporary setback becomes a major catastrophe.
It was true at Cassino, and when the Germans and bad weather delayed us a little while in Normandy, and now again when we have lost, in a dramatic episode, fewer men than have the Germans in many actions which failed even to make the front pages. It is a reaction from a few weeks ago when the German war was "broken" and speculation was rife as to whether it could make even a halfway decent stand on the Rhine.
Now we are talking of a winter war of frustration on the western front. Churchill, naturally taking the opportunity to overconfidently possible remaining overconfidence, reminds that it could be, but carefully abstains from saying it will. Well, it could be. People fighting with their backs to their homes often upset the best military calculations. On Sept. 28, 1941, there were few who conceded the Nazis any chance to stop the Russians before Moscow.

But today's military set-up hardly fits the same mold. The Allies probably have on the western front three times as many men as do the Germans. They are better equipped, their rear areas are practically free from the constant bombing which harries every German move, and they have unlimited resources behind them.
It would have been very helpful if the airborne troops could have held the Rhine bridge at Arnhem. But the jobs back and forth up and down the front are only the warm-up rounds in the real battle for Germany. Delay now, as at Caen, means only that once again Eisenhower is sending no boys to do a man's job. The German campaign will start when he is ready to start it, and that probably very soon.
The Germans keep counter-attacking the American First and Third Armies, while fighting bitterly to contain the still-attacking British, French and American Seventh in other sectors. On the Russian front that would mean the First and Third are building up the strength the Germans fear most. Here it may mean only that slightly less pressure permits counterattacks in the center while Patton and Hodges await the zero hour and complete their reorganization after the headlong dash across France.
The airborne attacks in Holland were generally interpreted as the forerunners of an end run north of the Siegfried anchor at Kleve. Major forces are poised to the south for what could be direct eastward blows. Whatever it is to be, the Allied supreme command planned it that way, taking into consideration that there would be battles and perhaps setbacks, but without the slightest intention of letting a few days' delay at any point interfere with the main campaign plan.
Williamsburg, Va., was settled as Middle Plantation in 1633 as an outpost palisade against the Indians.
