

Presidential Qualities Are "Town Meeting" Subjects

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and Senator Homer Ferguson (R. Mich.), each an outstanding champion of his party's presidential standard-bearer, will engage in a verbal duel on the 1944 candidates and issues, when they debate the question, "For a Sound National Administration, Roosevelt or Dewey?" on America's Town Meeting of the Air, on Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., Lima time, over Station WJZ.

Departing from the usual practice of presenting two speakers from each side of the question, "Town Meeting" will present just one speaker for each candidate, allowing more time for development of his case, and also allowing more time for the speakers to answer questions addressed to them by members of the audience. The broadcast marks the return of "Town Meeting" to Town Hall, New York, after a coast-to-coast tour. George V. Denny, Jr., presides as moderator.

The highly imaginative mind of a neurotic woman, and a night elevator operator who bears a close resemblance to her mother's murderer form the background for "Night Man," the latest "Suspense" drama, on Thursday, at 7 p. m., over station WABC. Virginia Bruce plays the neurosis-ridden heroine and Richard Whorf co-stars as the elevator operator.

STUEBENVILLE, O., Oct. 26 (UP)—They also serve... Two youngsters, a boy of 10 and a girl about eight, stood looking at the woman at the registration booth for the Red Cross blood bank yesterday. Finally the boy approached the woman and said they'd like to register. They were told they were too small to give a pint of blood. After conferring on this, the lad marched back. "Look lady, if we're too small to give a pint," he said, "I'll give a half pint and my sister will give half a pint." The lady was sorry. They were too young.
