Every man for himself and the from 4 to 5 p.m. devil take the hindmost." This gave no consideration for the other fellow-let him beware in all his usiness and other transactions. If he were cheated or deceived that was his hard luck-"business is business." A second. "One man's gain is another man's loss" is an economic fallacy and yet there were those who at one time believed in it. Today, the exchange of goods is business itself. In centuries past our best intellect has been devoted to the production of goods. Now it should be devoted to better methods for the exchange of goods.

A development in thinking and in attitude is to be found in proverb of "Live and let live." While this was on the right track it did kind.

Sharon Douglas as Mrs. Riley. The great majority of people are willing to help anyone who really tries to help himself. "Live and help live" is an ideal that helps to lift our ship of life over the waves of obstacles. This ideal, however, does not mean that you should wait for the other fellow to help you, but that you should jump in and see how much you can help the other fellow. Try it sometime and see what a wonderful effect it has on you!
