Milk Group Hits Subsidy Limits

limits set on the present congressional subsidy programs and the drive of union labor to organize dairy workers are major threats to dairy income, Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producer's federation, told that organization's 28th annual meeting Wed-

Holman said that subsidies account for 14 per cent of dairy income, and in individual instances may run as high as 30 per cent of the total the army quartermaster corps paid tribute to the dairy industry for its feats of production, but denied that the army had excess dairy products on hand. He said that the end of the war in Germany will step-up rather than reduce its requirements for many fresh products such as butter.
