

"Bowery To Broadway" Opens Thursday At State

Covering a generation of New York's theatre history, the picture "Bowery to Broadway," opening Thursday at the State theatre, is a melodious, spectacular and human story of show business people from the 1800's to the early 1930's.

The story concerns the friendship of Jack Oakie and Donald Cook, two rival show producers who eventually become partners. What turns out is really something worth shouting about. The cast includes such notables as Maria Montez, Susanna Foster, Jack Oakie, Tutan Bey, Louise Allbritton, Leo Carrillo, Andy Devine and many others.

Ever since our nation was plunged into the boiling cauldron of war, Hollywood has been trying to picture various phases of our struggle on film. The list of war films is long indeed, but there is among them an honored few, and sincerity. Such is the picture whose main merit lies in honesty and sincerity. Such is the picture "Objective, Burma" now showing at the Ohio theatre.

Superb beyond all words of description is the picture "The Keys of the Kingdom" with the most outstanding star of the year, Gregory Peck. Destined to become an Academy award winner, the picture holds its own with such pictures as "Gone With the Wind," "The Song of Bernadette," "Mrs. Miniver," and many, many others. "The Keys of the Kingdom" is now playing at the Quilna theatre.

They are back again by popular request in the picture that sent them both to stardom, Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald have come to the screen of the Sigma theatre in "Naughty Marietta," a festival of music if there ever was one. Both play their parts exceedingly well and the singing comes with such ease that it seems miraculous.

At the Lyric there is a picture that will, without a doubt, steal your heart. It's the picture, "Four Jills in a Jeep," starring Kay Francis, Carole Landis, Martha Raye, Mita Mayfair and that singing sensation that swept the nation, Dick Haymes. "Four Jills in a Jeep," is now sharing the billing with the picture "Are These Our Parents?" now showing at the Lyric theatre.
