With the release of the eagerly awaited film version of Betty Smith's A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," the best-selling book in years, willjudging from unprecedented Hollywood preview acclaim-become the best-loved picture of a lifetime.

Not since "Gone With the Wind" has the casting of any picture provoked sucl nation-wide interest and speculation as has this book.

Movie-goers are bound to be unanimous in their approval of what is being widely acknowledged by authorities as the most perfect casting job ever achieved in Hollywood. "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" opened Friday at the Quilna theatre and stars Dorothy Mc-Guire, James Dunn, Joan Blondell, Peggy Ann Garner, Ted Donaldson and Lloyd Nolan. Telling a fascinating story of two well-meaning persons caught up in a web of deadly circumstance, "The Woman in the Window," Hollywood's newest screen offering, now showing at the Ohio theatre and starring Edward G. Robinson and Joan Bennett. The unusual plot presents Robinson as a scholary professor and Miss Bennett as an artist's model. Without warning, the two find themselves in a situation full of peril, a slain man's body on their hands, and the ruin of their respective lives in the balance if they are You've all heard the song, "I've Got Plenty of Nothing," but that doesn't hold true at the Sigma theatre beginning Saturday. They've got "Nothing but Trouble," only that's the name of a It sounds pretty bad, to have nothing but trouble, but the movie of the same name is good. Mystery, interspersed with some comedy and drama-added up and it turns out to be wonderful.

Humphrey Bogart and the new screen star, Lauren Bacall, will appear together in the picture "To Have and Have Not," opening Sunday at the State theatre. This is the story of two souls who have been stepped on by almost everyone but who find their way to happiness together.

Richard Greene who has been gone from the screen for quite some time has been brought back in one of his most outstanding pictures which he made before going to war. The picture is "rellow Canary" and will open Sunday at the Lyric theatre.
