According to the Fiji religion, each person has a spirit which lives after death. This spirit, 'tis said, will harm any relative who does not show it honor. A missionary tells how a native who adopted the Christian faith changed his mind about the god Ndengei.

OLD FIJI RELIGION TELLS OF DEITY IN FORM OF SERPENT

Most of the Fijians have turned Christian, but knowledge has been saved of their old religion. The most important Fiji god is Ndengei, and he has been pice.

"Ndengei," said the native, "is just another name for Satan. Once he claimed to be as powerful as Jehovah. They had a dispute as to which could make men. Jehovah could make men that moved, but Ndengei could not do that." "Ndengei," said the native, "is
