

Hoot Gibson, Bob Steele Are Together In Lyric Movie

A parallel between modern times and the reconstruction period following the civil war is drawn in "Trigger Law," a new western adventure drama starring Hoot Gibson and Bob Steele and opening at the Lyric theatre Monday. The setting is Arizona where a promoter heading a gang of trigger men is attempting to acquire control of the entire state.

It's a "show within a show" at the Ohio theatre where "Here Come the Waves," with Bing Crosby, Betty Hutton and Sonny Tufts is playing. While glorifying the work being done by the WAVES in this war, producer-director Mark Sandrich found a means of taking his beautiful WAVES out of uniform, so they could cavort to their hearts' desire without offending Naval rules.

Movie audiences who so thoroughly enjoyed Roddy McDowall as the wistful, sensitive boy in "The Keys to the Kingdom" and "My Friend Flicka" will see him as a quite different youngster in the Mary O'Hara sequel to the latter hit, "Thunderhead—Son of Flicka" now at the Quina theatre.

Starring James Cagney, Ann Sheridan and Pat O'Brien, "Torrid Zone" has returned to the Sigma theatre by popular request. As the title indicates, "Torrid Zone" has a tropical setting down in the banana country.

When wagon trains were moving west, the little white prairie schooner made a picture worth seeing. These and many other scenes have been filmed in technical color and can be seen at the State theatre in the movie, "Can't Help Singing" with Deanna Durbin and Robert Paige.

Jap Crab Meat Finally Eaten

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2 (UP)—This is the end of the story about a box of canned crab meat. Packed by the Japanese before the war, it had been intended originally for the British Officers' club at Singapore. The Japanese captured the seafood when they took Singapore and sent it to their own officers' club on Saipan. Then the U. S. Marines took Saipan—and the crab meat. A report from the Pacific, relating the wanderings of the seafood, ended with these words: "The story can go no further—we have eaten it all."
