

Wallace Beery's New Film Is Tribute To Navy Airship Men

Following his outstanding hits, Wallace Beery comes to the screen of the State theatre Thursday in a story of the celebrated but unsung lighter-than-air service of the United States Navy. It's called "This Man's Navy" and it's a fine tribute to those who man the dirigibles and perform heroic feats in the dangerous job of hunting down submarines.

He's here! That fellow you have been waiting to see is now on the stage of the Ohio theatre with his orchestra and all the entertainers you have heard but have not seen. Frankie Masters and his orchestra of mellow-music-makers have come to entertain you, but won't be here long. If you want to see him, you will have to hurry. On the screen is a new picture "Pan American."

"A Song to Remember"—a picture to remember—is now at the Quilna theatre. Movie-making at its peak is shown on the screen. You will marvel at the effect the picture has on the audience. And not only this, you will find that silence except for the sounds coming from the moving picture, prevails.

Kiddies should start getting the two pounds of clothing ready that they want to turn in Saturday in order that they may get to see the "All-Kiddie" show. This unusual schedule has been made thru the efforts of Ted Davidson, manager of Warner Bros. Sigma theatre and the Lions club of Lima in co-operation with the National Clothing Drive.

Just as kids will be kids—jewel thieves will be jewel thieves under any and all conditions. This you will find true after you have seen "Oh, What a Night" with Marjorie Rameau, Edmund Lowe and lovely Jean Arthur now playing at the Lyric theatre.

GOES TO MANSFIELD
CLEVELAND, Apr. 18—(AP)—Ernest Kovacs, 16, who was quoted by police as saying he shot Carmelita Ventriglio, also 16, because "she made a good target," today awaited transfer to Mansfield state reformatory. He was sentenced to 1 to 20 years after pleading guilty to manslaughter charges.

War casualties are being moved by air from battle zones to hospitals behind the lines, home from overseas, and within the United States at the rate of more than 2,000 a day.

Art Expert To Be Guest On Ellery Queen Program

Monroe Wheeler, art expert, exhibitions director and trustee of New York's world-famous Museum of Modern Art, will be Ellery Queen's guest armchair detective for "The Adventure of the Crime That Wasn't Possible" on Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. over WABC.

Ellery always wanted to solve the classical crime problem of the priceless old master stolen from a well-guarded museum, and here is the assignment.

Tracking down a couple of desperate juvenile delinquents, "Mr. and Mrs. North" find that murder isn't kid stuff when "The Norths and the Little Man Who Wasn't There" match wits on Wednesday, Apr. 18, at 7 p. m. over Station WAF. All the trouble starts when Pam North's young cousin, Squirely, is invited to a night club by one of the rivals of her affections. The body slouts accompanies the youngster to the night spot, and Jerry North shows up later just in time to discover a corpse under the table.

They become involved in ticklish and rib-tickling situations before the real killer is found. Alice Frost and Joseph Curtin co-star in the comedy-mystery, and John W. Loveton directs.

Robert Daru, chairman of the New York Criminal Courts Bar, will present a scroll honoring the "Mr. District Attorney" program during the broadcast on Wednesday, over WEAF at 8:30 p. m., to Jay Jostyn, star of the series.
