In February Eighth air force heavy bombers attacked 57 rail yards throughout Germany in two days, bombing for the first time at altitudes as low as 5,000 feet. They were protected by their "little friends," the fighters, who also strafed rail lines. On that operation the slogan read: "Big and little friends Down on the deck, Make all Germany One big wreck.' As the great campaign against the German rail network was intensified, they marked up: "Bomb their yards, Strafe their tracks, 6:36 WIBA WBBM
