

New Film's Musical Score Most Polished Of Its Kind

With an eye toward making a good motion picture which would appeal to all types of audiences, Hollywood has sent Lima "Delightfully Dangerous"—the de luxe musical coming to the Sigma theatre Wednesday.

For those who are thrilled by the best there is in symphonic music, a quarter of a million dollars has been expended in this picture to procure the best musical score that money can buy. And for those who are strictly on the groovy side, there is plenty of the kind of music you like.

Three top favorites of the screen share starring honors in the film "The Enchanted Cottage," the new romantic drama at the Ohio theatre. Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young, who scored so notably in "Claudia," and Herbert Marshall, are the stars in the unusual offering which deals with the strange love affair between two fugitives from a world that has no place for them.

Sweeping the midwest in the 1930's, a wave of crime created by John Dillinger held people spell-bound until he finally was caught. In the movie, "Dillinger"—the film, which relates the notorious life of this criminal—the capture which was made by the FBI probably was the highlight of that era. The picture now is at the Quilna theatre.

"What you can see is nothing to be afraid of—it's just what you can't see that should frighten you." No doubt, many of you have heard that before and if so, you'll have a better understanding of the picture "The Unseen." If not, then you'll not want to miss this film opening Thursday at the State theatre.

When folks get desperate, there is no telling what they are liable to do. This can be seen in even the most uncivilized people. In seeing "Call of the Jungle" this is shown most lucidly.
