

Escapists Find Their Dish In "Eve Knew Her Apples"

Hollywood has been striking the escapist note more and more frequently of late, and the new comedy-musical "Eve Knew Her Apples," opening Friday at the Quilna theatre, is right in line with this refreshing trend of motion pictures.

The film, featuring William Wright, Robert Williams and Ray Walker with Ann Miller in the starring role, is a gay, scintillating comedy about a beautiful radio singer who runs off on a stolen vacation, only to find herself mixed up in a riotous case of mistaken identity.

As fresh as the spring season itself, the comedy-romance "Pillow to Post" is currently showing at the Ohio theatre. Starring Ida Lupino, Sydney Greenstreet and William Prince, the comedy is a goofy and gay salute to Army regulations, Army husbands and Army wives.

A brand new romantic team has come out of Hollywood and are none other than Ralph Bellamy and Constance Moore, stars of "Delightfully Dangerous," now at the Sigma theatre. The pair make their debut as a love combination in this film.

For those who are interested in how to cut capers on ice, a picture they will want to see is coming to the State theatre Sunday titled "It's a Pleasure," starring Michael O'Shea and Sonja Henie. Sheer pleasure awaits you.

Judy Canova is perhaps the only person who can make you laugh and yet make you feel sorry for her at the same time. In the film "Sleepytime Gal" opening Sunday at the Lyric theatre, Judy again keeps the audience on "pins and needles" as to what scrapes her fun-provoking antics will get her into next.

In testimony prepared for the house post-war military policy committee, the editor of The Richmond, Va., News Leader said: "The examination of American military history makes clear x x x (that) the old cycle of armament, negligence and frenzied preparation for war has cost our nation unreckonable billions of dollars and hundred of thousands of lives."
