

Modern 'Bluebeard' Exploits Novel Psychological Twists

Modern crimes often find basis in fairy stories and those who commit them are certain that, because of this, no one will suspect them. John Carradine has the role of the modern "Bluebeard" in the film of the same name opening Monday at the Lyric theatre. This is one of the quietest roles of his career in the psychological murder drama.

Army camps, army regulations and the pretty traveling saleslady played by Ida Lupino are all bundled together in "Pillow to Post"—one of the movie surprises of the year. The comedy tells the giddy story of a peat traveling saleslady and of her adventures in a soldier-packed Army camp town. The film is currently featured at the Ohio theatre.

Telling the story of a top radio singer who tried to escape from things for a little rest is the film "Eve Knew Her Apples" now playing at the Quinlan. Ann Miller has the starring role and finds herself in so many mix-ups that the tangle seems almost too hard for one person to pull out of alone.

When a lonely serviceman, on his first visit to New York City possessing a precious 48-hour pass meets a lovely young girl who takes him to her heart, the result is one of the most enchanting motion pictures of this or any other year. The film, "The Clock," starring Judy Garland and Robert Walker is currently featured at the Sigma theatre.

Many of you no doubt, at some time have wondered how pictures filmed in technicolor, especially winter pictures, can be made to avoid the glare of ice and snow. Believe it or not they are tinted just slightly. This is what happened in "It's a Pleasure" with Michael O'Shea and Sonja Henie now playing at the State theatre.
