Tuneful Film, Bataan Epic Vie For Favor

"Variety is the spice of life," or so goes the saying. In this case, Lima is way out ahead of many other cities for the movie marquee indicate that we have plenty of the spice of life on hand for this Sunday.

So you think you've seen everything as far as musicals are concerned? Frankly, about a couple of thousand other people had too—that is, until "Where Do We Go From Here" opened at the Quilna theatre. The new technicolor musical starring Fred MacMurray, Joan Leslie and June Haver is by far the most delightfully different picture that has come out of Hollywood in ages and one of the most wonderful packages of high-spirited fun to reach the screen.

Telling a true-to-life story, "Back to Bataan" continues its stay at the Ohio theatre. The film, starring John Wayne, describes the guerrilla warfare on Bataan Peninsula after the American and Filipino troops were forced to surrender.

The man who has the power over jungle life can currently be seen at the Sigma theatre in the film, "Tarzan and the Amazons," with Johnny Weissmuller in the starring role. He is assisted by a superb supporting cast headed by Brenda Joyce and Johnny Sheffield.

Girls, you should be at the height of your glory, for guess who's in town. That's right, Van Johnson is at the State theatre in "Between Two Women." All you baby-sitters may be interested to know that there is nothing that Van likes better than to be surrounded by a bunch of teen-agers.

Sounds weird and so it is—the film at the Lyric theatre playing under the title of "Phantom Cowboy" and starring Donald Barry. It's co-feature is another which will practically chill you to the bone and that is "Whispering Ghost."

"SINGING FOR JOY"—Laurel and Hardy find themselves in a tight squeeze but sing for joy with Doris Merrick in "The Big Noise," the new laugh riot opening Monday at the Lyric theatre. Acclaimed as their most hilarious hit ever, the screen's zaniest comedians are cast as two shivery Sherlocks on the lookout for bombs and blondes in a House of Horror completely wired for fun. Arthur Space and Veda Borg are also featured in the film directed by Mal St. Clair and produced by Sol M. Wurtzel.

"Tailor's busy, Buck—he won't have 'em pressed for about an hour."

All the gasoline consumed by General Pershing's AEF during the entire campaign would scarcely make a fair operational reserve for our Armies in the field. It is up to the Army engineers to provide adequate road, rail and port facilities for requirements in excess of 1,000 tons per day to supply each front-line division and its supporting troops.
