

Death Valley Is Backdrop For New Feature At State

Death Valley, a land of white desert sand that seems to simmer and dance in its own heat, is one of nature's grimmest wonders. The valley has a history which reaches back to the days of the Spanish quest for gold. Using this locale as a backdrop, "Escape in the Desert," starring Helmut Dantine, Philip Dorn and Jean Sullivan, will open Thursday at the State theatre.

A picture that has everything—that's what everyone is looking for but so seldom finds. Now showing at the Ohio theatre is such a film. "Thrill of a Romance" stars Van Johnson and Esther Williams, is filmed in technicolor and has Lauritz Melchior of the Metropolitan Opera and Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra.

At the Quina theatre you will find the story of a man's life brilliantly portrayed by Fred McMurray. The film, "Captain Eddie," tells the story of Eddie Rickenbacker's life from childhood to the present.

Whether or not science has proved this to be so, the picture "Bewitched," now playing at the Sigma theatre, a girl seems to own a dual personality. Informatively, this type of person will act one way at one time and then do the opposite of his better judgment. How she is cured is shown in the film.

Paced like modern-day jet propulsion, Buster Crabbe and Al (Fuzzy) St. John rip thru the latest western screen offering, "Gangsters' Den" opening at the Lyric theatre Thursday. The successful teaming of Crabbe and St. John is shown once more in this "King of the Wild West" series.

Tablecloth Doodle Becomes Important In Radio Story

David Harding, sworn foe of saboteurs and spies, proves that even the smallest clue may have great significance, in another timely episode of "Counterspy" entitled "The Case of the Tablecloth Doodle," to be heard Wednesday at 10 p. m., over WJZ.

Just what is meant by I. Q. (Intelligence Quotient) will be explained, when "The Human Adventure" dramatizes the story of the development of methods of measuring accurately a person's intelligence, in its broadcast over Station WOR, Wednesday at 10 p. m.

Continuing to mix heart appeal with laugh appeal, "Detect and Collect" will call to the stage from the studio audience a handsome man, a pretty girl and a member of the armed forces on Wednesday at 9:30 p. m. over WABC, to play radio's maddest quiz game with quizmaster Fred Uttal.

To honor noted starmaker Gus Edwards on his birthday, Wednesday, his most famous protege,
