

Starrett Is Real Rancher And He Proves It In Film

Visit a Hollywood western location some time if you have the idea that all film cowboys are of the drugstore variety. You'll quickly find they're not.

Those men who add authenticity to movies have had considerable experience on ranches and the like and Charles Starrett is one of them. He can take it and he likes it. Several scenes in "Return of the Durango Kid" now showing at the Lyric theatre proves this statement.

If you're a fun-lover then there is one film currently showing at the Lyric theatre entitled "Naughty Nineties" which is over-flowing with that stuff. With Abbott and Costello in the leading roles, the film takes on some of the most peculiar lights that were ever thrown on the plot of a movie.

Then if you're in the mood for a musical, "State Fair" at the Lyric theatre is the picture for you. Here in this film you will find Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain, Vivian Blaine, and Dick Haymes who keep things pretty lively thruout the extent of the film.

Vivacious and glamorous Hedy Lamarr has the title role in "Her Highness and the Bell Boy" with June Allyson and Robert Walker sharing stellar honors at the Lyric theatre. You will laugh till your sides ache at some of the extreme things which occur in this movie about an unsatisfied bell hop and a princess who is a guest at the hotel where he works.

Gary Cooper and Loretta Young are tops in their current co-starrer "Along Came Jones" the picture now playing at the State theatre. Sharing the billing is "That's the Spirit."

"Follow the Leader" is the perfect name for the film now showing at the Allen theatre. The co-feature is "Sonora Stagecoach."
