

“Too Young To Know” Opens For Week’s Run At Ohio

Young love, warm, joyous and endearing, is gaily and tenderly saluted in the bright new comedy-romance, “Too Young to Know,” which arrives at the Ohio theatre, Friday.

It traces the whirlwind romance of Sally Sawyer, played by Miss Leslie and Ira Enright (Hutton), two fun-loving kids who discover, one spring afternoon, that their love for each other logically leads to marriage.

Still wowing audiences at the Quilna theatre is “Wonder Man” starring Danny Kaye, and featuring Virginia Mayo and Vera-Ellen.

A beautiful Russian, which, perfect for the act, is turned into one of the craziest pieces of music ever done either on or off the screen.

Almost everyone has toyed with the delicious fantasy of how to spend a million dollars if it should ever fall into our laps, but to spend it in two months’ time opens up a new line of thought.

Next to the supreme sacrifice of giving one’s life, perhaps would be the undertaking of such a risky piece of business that both you and many others might suffer if you failed or slipped in any circumstance.

Detective Sydney Toler is up to his old ways of tracking down a murderer in his current film, “The Scarlet Clue” now showing at the Lync theatre.

If you feel in the mood for a good western film, then the place for you is the Allen theatre where “The Utah Kid” is playing.

Disappearing Bride Makes Weird ‘Suspense’ Air Show

A disappearing bride and her frantic husband’s efforts to find her, form the basis of “I Won’t Take a Minute,” Glenn Ford’s starring vehicle on “Suspense” at 8 p. m. Thursday over CBS.

In this thriller, the bride, on an errand for her employer, enters a house, expecting to stay only briefly, but does not reappear. Her husband begins to trace her, and his search, crowded with hair-raising events, leads to an astonishing climax.

The Music Hall guest foursome, Frank Morgan and Lina Romay, Carmen Cavallaro and Vera Yague hold another half hour session at 9 p. m. Thursday over NBC.

Now this society reporter came on one of the local sheets has seen better days, get it? But before this “Rogue’s Gallery” broadcast of “Eve and the Apple,” at 8:30 p. m. Thursday over MBS, is over, she sees even worse.
