Uncle Ray's Corner Charles V Became Powerful Ruler During Youth

If you were making a list of the favoriate names of kings in Europe, which ones would you put

Here are seven which have been more or less common: Louis, Charles, Henry, Frederick, William, Edward and Francis. England has had eight kings named Edward, and France has had 18 kings named Louis. The most popular of all kings' names, however, has been Charles, with Henry a strong rival. Sweden, alone, lists 15 kings named Charles.Great Britain had 🦹 two kings named Charles, and in France 10 monarchs of that name have held the throne. Other countries which have had rulers named Charles include Spain and Romania. Among those who stand out above the rest, we find Charles V. He was born shortly before Christopher Columbus died, and came to be one of the most powerful rulers in Europe's history.

Few princes have been more "international" than the child who was born in the Netherlands in 1500. His mother was Spanish his father was a French noble, and one of his grandfathers was the 'Roman emperor," being partly German and partly Portuguese.

That grandfather was Maximilian I. The other grandfather of the little prince was King Ferdinand of Spain. One of his grand-mothers was Queen Isabella.

The mother of Prince Charles was Joanna, daughter of Ferdinand and Isabella. Sad to say, she became insane, and when it was time for her to rule as queen of Spain, she was unfit for the office. For this reason, her young son was named co-ruler. Charles was only six years old when his father died and left him the Netherlands, also the county lands after his fifteenth birthday, man emperor. He was crowned for young manhood. We shall see, Tomorrow; Charles and Pera-
