Peace Draft Heads List

House Committee Hearings Start Feb. 18

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) —The house military affairs committee today put universal peacetime military training first on its legislative list.

Chairman Aindrew J. May (D.-Ky.) said hearings on the subject would be held Feb. 18-21 and that it would then be voted "up or down."

Some members predicted the committee would not approve the full year's training program recommended by Pres. Truman. They believed some compromise would be reached.

Meanwhile, the army said it could not meet congressional demands that it discharge all of the 700,000 soldier-fathers now in service by next July 1. Even at best, it said, 120,000 fathers still will be in service on that date.

In a letter to the senate military affairs committee, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson said the army would need 400,000 replacements by July 1 even to achieve its goal of releasing 580,000 fathers by then.

When the army is assured that inflow can be met or surpassed, he said, it will be "more than happy" to consider quicker release of fathers.

Council to Act on Pay Changes

The city council will meet in committee of the whole Friday at 7 p. m., preceding its regular session, to act on ordinances changing the basis of aldermen's pay and fixing the salareis of the mayor and other elective officials.

The council also will caucus to fill the recreated position of smoke inspector. Five candidates who survived written examinations were given oral interviews Tuesday night by the personnel board.

The board of estimates recommended in submitting the 1946 budget that the mayor's salary be increased from $6,000 to $7,500 and another proposed change would compensate aldermen on the basis of attendance at council and committee meetings. They are paid now straight salaries of $25 monthly.

Waldron Admits Forging Two Checks

Phillip C. Waldron, 20, of 112 S. Brooks st., medically discharged sailor who was arrested here Tuesday while driving a stolen car, was sent to jail today to await sentence after he pleaded guilty in superior court to forging two checks, totaling $220.

Waldron told police he stole the car in St. Louis, Mo., and drove it to Madison, where he cashed the checks Jan. 29 and 30, signing the name of a brother-in-law. He was illegally wearing a navy uniform when arrested. Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) officials were to question Waldron concerning the uniform-wearing and transporting the stolen car across state lines.

Police said Waldron was discharged from the navy in 1943, when he suffered a punctured ear drum at Great Lakes, Ill. Shortly afterwards, he was convicted in superior court here of forgery and sentenced to 1 to 3 years in the state industrial school at Green Bay. He is on parole from Green Bay.

48 Counties Study Deer Problems

Deer studies are under way in 48 Wisconsin counties this winter, the conservation department said today.

Conservation wardens and special assistants are studying the food supplies, crop damage inflicted by deer, and other matters, the department reported. Officials said "much of the investigational effort" is directed toward 28 northern and central counties.

"In one way or another deer have become a problem in all sections of Wisconsin with the exception of the extreme southern part of the state and the populous area fronting on Lake Michigan," the department said.

Society Plans Day of Recollection

St. Bernard's Catholic church Holy Name society will sponsor a day of recollection Sunday, beginning with a 7:30 a. m. mass and reception of communion for members and all other men of the parish.

After the mass, breakfast will be served in the school hall and a short business meeting will be held. The program for the day will be announced by the retreat master who is from Marquette university, Milwaukee. Dinner also will be served and the exercises will conclude with benediction late in the afternoon.

St. Bernard's troop of Boy Scouts will meet at 7:15 a. m. to lead the society to the church and mass. They will also be guests of the Holy Name at breakfast. The troop is under the leadership of Rodney Hawley.
