Education, which has performed many vital services to the public in the past 50 years, and which has failed in others, now faces its biggest job of all—the prevention of future wars, Edgar G. Doudna, secretary of state board of teacher college regent, asserted before a meeting of the St. Patrick's years' experience as an educator.

pointed out that making the publie health-conscious was one of the schools' best contributions. He said that educational institutions, through clinics and training programs, have aided in raising the life expectancy 15 years since Failure has been met in the control of alcohol and in aiding in suitable marriages, Doudna said. He pointed out that there are 600,-000 alcoholics under treatment in this country now, with every prospect that that number will increase to 1,000,000 by 1950, and that the divorce rate is increasing by leaps and bounds.
