Firm Buys $2,500,000 'Fly Trap'

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.)—If you're a fly and live in the state of Pennsylvania, you can get your wings killed in a trap that cost $2,500,000.

The executive mansion—just outside Philadelphia—has 130 rooms, gold-plated door knobs, its own electric and heating plants, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur used to sleep in one of its many beds.

Not only that but James H. R. Cromwell, Doris Duke's ex-husband, used to swing his dumbbells out on the roof and mow his bearded chest in the morning sun.

3,000 Die Daily There's no question in any insect's mind but that Whitemarsh hall is the most expensive and elaborate fly trap in the world, and it sometimes does away with 3,000 flies in a single day.

The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co., one of the manufacturers of DDT and a new insecticide known as '666' bought the place from Mrs. Edward Stotesbury, widow of the famous Morgan Partner, in 1944.

Scientists have been giving poor flies the works down in the champagne room ever since.

Dr. Harry G. Walker, who now has his office in a converted bathroom where MacArthur once splashed, is one of the chief exterminators of the insects.

"Any one who believes this new '666' or 'DDT' is even more toxic than DDT," Walker said, "DDT remains effective longer, but this '666' has a heavier punch."

Walker, who likes to kill more things than just flies, figures that the boll weevil down south had better hunt for cover fast.

"DDT doesn't faze the boll weevil," he said, "but, boy, wait until we get through spraying him with '666'."

The house that Morgan's partner built not only serves as an abattoir for flies but also acts as the jumping off place for peapods, bean weevils, Mexican bean beetles, and anything else that Walker can entice past those gold-embossed doors.

Some 25,000 Germans Still in Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM—There are still about 25,000 Germans in Amsterdam, most of whom were living here before the outbreak of war in 1939.

According to thousands of displaced persons in Germany, the Allied Military Government never asked the Dutch authorities last year to return those Germans to their homeland.

Aside from the active Nazis in the Netherlands, who were immediately arrested, the rest of the Germans here have moved about without restrictions. They have only been required to register—as do any foreign nationals in normal times—although their property has been placed under Their temporary status, however, has now undergone a change. The Hague has published a decree under which those Germans wishing to remain in this country must make known their intentions by Mar. 15; the same decree adds, moreover, that the Dutch will treat these Germans "in the Dutch way," that is to say, not as the Germans treated Dutch and Jews.

will be made for Austrians in the Netherlands who ever joined the Nazi movement and for those Germans who, during the occupation, proved "real friends of Holland."

But a real problem is posed by "stateless persons" in the country. For the most part, they are White Russians and German Jews who cancelled the hands of the Nazis. Until now they were treated as non-enemy foreigners. Henceforth, however, former German citizens will be treated as Germans. This means that they will be allowed to remain in the Netherlands if they can prove they had no association with the Nazis.

Montreal, Chicago Win Two Berths Each on Honor Team

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (U.P.)—The league leading Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks each played two men on the National Hockey League's all-star team selected today by The Sporting News.

Goalie Bill Durnan and defenseman Emile Bouchard were the Montreal stars selected, while the Black Hawks were represented by two members of their high scoring forward line, Max Bentley and Bill Mosienko.

The other first team berths went to Jack Stewart of the Detroit Red Wings at Defense and Gaye Stewart of Toronto, named at a wing.

Johnny Gottselig, serving his first season as the Black Hawks coach, was named the all-star team coach.

Named to the second team were Harry Lumley of Detroit, goalie Johnny Crawford of Boston, and "Babe" Pratt of Toronto; defenseman Elmer Lach of Montreal; center and Doug Bentley of Chicago; and Maurice Richard of Montreal at the wings; Dick Irvin of Montreal was chosen coach.
