

Ohio Brings Creole Story To Theatre Screen Friday

A slice out of America's past, rich in color, romance and adventure, springs into lush life in the newest drama of love and adventure, "Saratoga Trunk" which arrives Friday at the Ohio theatre.

Starring Gary Cooper and the year's most talked about actress, Ingrid Bergman, the film tells a turbulent tale of intrigue, ruthlessness and love, set in exotic Creole New Orleans and the bawdy, vulgar Saratoga of a departed era.

Against a lavish picture of America's coming of age in the latter half of the 19th century, against the survival struggle among men of vision for power and prestige, for railroads and steel, the film traces the fabulous rise of Texas-born Clint Maroon (Gary Cooper) and his Ohio (Ingrid Bergman) of New Orleans.

Two of the craziest writers ever to reach the screen are currently to be seen at the Ohio theatre. The screwballs are Willard Parker and Chester Morris whose adventures begin on a Pullman car of a train traveling from Chicago to Los Angeles. "One Way to Love" offers plenty of laughs as does its co-feature, "A Guy Could Change."

For western fans the film at the Sigma theatre is certain to please. Plenty of action is to be found in the film "Abilene Town" which stars Randolph Scott and Ann Dvorak. Sharing the billing is "Spider Woman Strikes Back."

Betty Grable and June Haver depict the lives of the "Dolly Sisters" in the film of the same name now showing at the Lyric theatre. Taking the city of New York by storm and moving on to Europe where they made headlines five inches in depth, the picture tells from beginning to end, their adventures. Sharing the billing is "In the Meantime, Darling" with Jeanne Craine and Frank Lattimore.

Frank Albertson has the starring role in "Mystery Broadcast" opening Wednesday at the Allen theatre. The co-feature is "Drums of Fu Man Chu" affording plenty of thrills and chills for all. Cast in the latter film are Henry Brandon and William Boyde.

"Son of Lassie" with Peter Lawford opens at the Majestic theatre Thursday, here picture tells the adventure which found its way into the film "Lassie Come Home" sharing the billing is "Sing Your Way Home" with Jack Haley.

Queen's Secret Revealed On Wednesday Radio Show

Pvt. Pat Berkeley, Army medical corpsman, of Brooklyn, will speak for the Red Cross drive and act as guest armchair detective on Elery Queen's "Adventure of the Armchair Detective" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday over CBS. Wounded in the European campaign, Berkeley is a patient in the Army's Halloran general hospital at Staten Island, N. Y., where he is recovering from serious head and leg wounds.

The Elery Queen yarn is a mystery which, for obvious reasons, the master sleuth has been keeping under his hat. He has described his investigation of murders in every kind of place, but there is one place and one murder he has been shy about. Now he will come clean.

Joe E. Brown, one of filmdom's outstanding comedians and a recent GI favorite overseas, will appear in the Andrews Sisters show, "Musical Showroom" at 10:30 p. m. will be broadcast over CBS.

Lina Romay, singer from south m. Wednesday, and receive the Green Room Award. The show of the hour, attends the Bob Crosby session at 9:30 p. m. Wednesday over CBS. Along with Bob and his Bobcats are John Lund, actor and chaff assistant during the musical half-hour, and the Town Crems.

Miss Romay has been a frequent visitor to brother Bing's program in addition to carrying out a full-time schedule with the movie studios. In her most recent film she receives her first screen kiss from Clark Gable, no less, in "Adventure."
