Lone Hunter Stalks Indiana Wildcat Menacing Farmers... LEBANON, Ind. (U.P.)—Harry McClain, a slight elderly man who doesn't look like he could lick his weight in wildcats, prepared today to do just that. He began a search for the "big cat" which farmers claim has devoured a 500-pound calf, chickens, dogs, cats, and guinea hens in recent weeks. McClain was armed with a .30 caliber rifle, an assortment of nets and a commission from Mayor Louis S. Stehling. He plans to sneak up on the big cat and slip a net over it. "But if it turns on me, I'll shoot its head off," McClain said. Only last week Lebanon was thrown into an uproar by reports of a "monster" which cried like a baby and stole livestock.
