

Demand of Fans Answered; Sigma To Hold Over 'OSS'

Supply and demand have been the basis of nearly everything since before any of us can remember. They have regulated our way of living, from our work to our entertainment. Once again the demand for a film to remain for a few more days has arisen and once again the supply of the particular film is adequate enough to allow just that.

"OSS" with Alan Ladd, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Patric Knowles is the film which will continue thru the week at the Sigma theatre. With its background being the files of the Office of Strategic Services, in Washington, the film brings one of the most hair-raising stories to come out of the war to the screen since this reviewer doesn't know when.

Tenderness can be detected throughout the entirety of the film "Courage of Lassie" now showing at the Ohio theatre. The film, which tells the story of this remarkable dog, is of an unusual nature and is treated with the most deftness and care ever granted a movie. Elizabeth Taylor, Frank Morgan and Tom Drake have the title roles as Lassie, the collie, is holding the featured role.

"Topper" with Cary Grant is the return feature at the Quilna theatre this Tuesday and will be playing thru the week ending Friday. Sharing the bill is "Come and Get It" and both films offer plenty of laughs and amusement.

Charles Coburn more than creates the role of the grandfather in the movie "The Green Years" now at the State theatre. Tom Drake also has a leading role in the story of an Irish lad come to live with his Scotch grandparents.

"Arson Squad" with Frank Albertson and "Secret Valley" with Richard Arlen are the current films at the Allen theatre while scheduled for opening there Wednesday are "I Accuse My Parents," a film on juvenile and adult delinquency, and "Frontier Feud."

"Angel From Brooklyn" and "Sunday Dinner For a Soldier" now are showing at the Lyric theatre. The latter picture stars John Hodiak and Anne Baxter. Opening Thursday will be "Snafu" and "Guntown."

Looking At HOLLYWOOD

with ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17—(NEA)—Ever wonder how those comical-looking little dogs in the movies got that way? It's elementary, my dear Watson, after someone like ace dog-trainer Henry East whispers you the lowdown.

They are bred to look funny. Yes, sir, just as show dogs are bred to look pretty. Star breeding in the Hollywood dog-trainers call it. And it works, too.

A funny little pup named Corky is getting a week for a role in a new Monogram picture, "It Happened on Fifth Avenue." Corky sticks his nose in front of the camera and everyone laughs. It didn't happen by accident. Corky was trainer Henry East's idea.

"Casting directors," he told us, "are always screaming for funny-looking little mutts. So we breed 'em to look funny."

Here's how Corky got that way: East took an Irish Terrier mother and bred her with a cross between a bird dog and a sheep dog. Then he took a female from the litter and bred her with a Dandy Dinamit. The result was Corky. "I kinda figured something funny might turn out."

Only two years old and already earning $250 a week, said East. "It was worth the experiment."

There is also nepotism in the Hollywood dog world, just as in the studios. Henry confessed sheepishly. Corky's stand-in, an equally comical-looking pup named Mike.

"It Happened on Fifth Avenue," a $1,500,000 movie, is the biggest picture in history for Monogram studio, an outfit that usually turns out Bs—and admits it.

The sky is the limit this time.

with Roy del Ruth in the director's chair and Don De Fore, Victor Moore, Gale Storm, Ann Harding and Charles Ruggles in the starring roles.

Monogram production schedules usually run eight days. "It Happened on Fifth Avenue" is no exception. After starting in on so many short-scheduled films, Gale quipped: "I didn't know whether to stop acting after the eighth day."

Michael Bartlett, the singer, has a staunchly loyal Brooklyn fan club which remained organized through his war service. Upon his return to civilian life, the president of the club telephoned him from Brooklyn and interviewed him for the official fan club paper.

"Tell me some of your likes and dislikes," she urged.

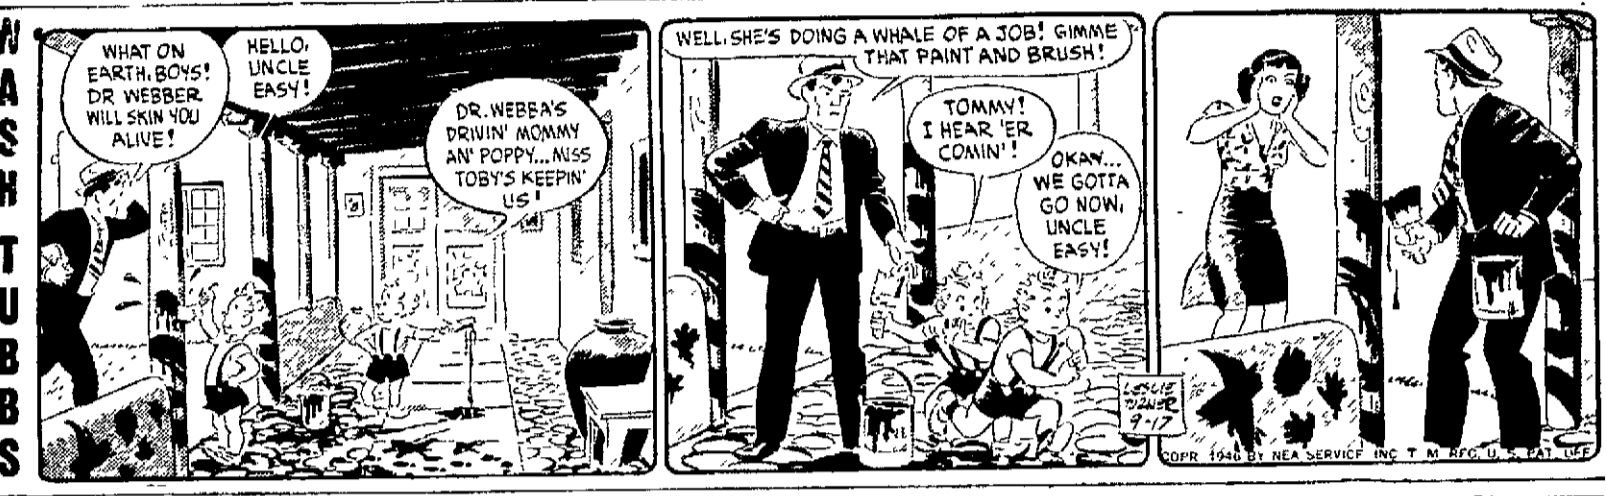

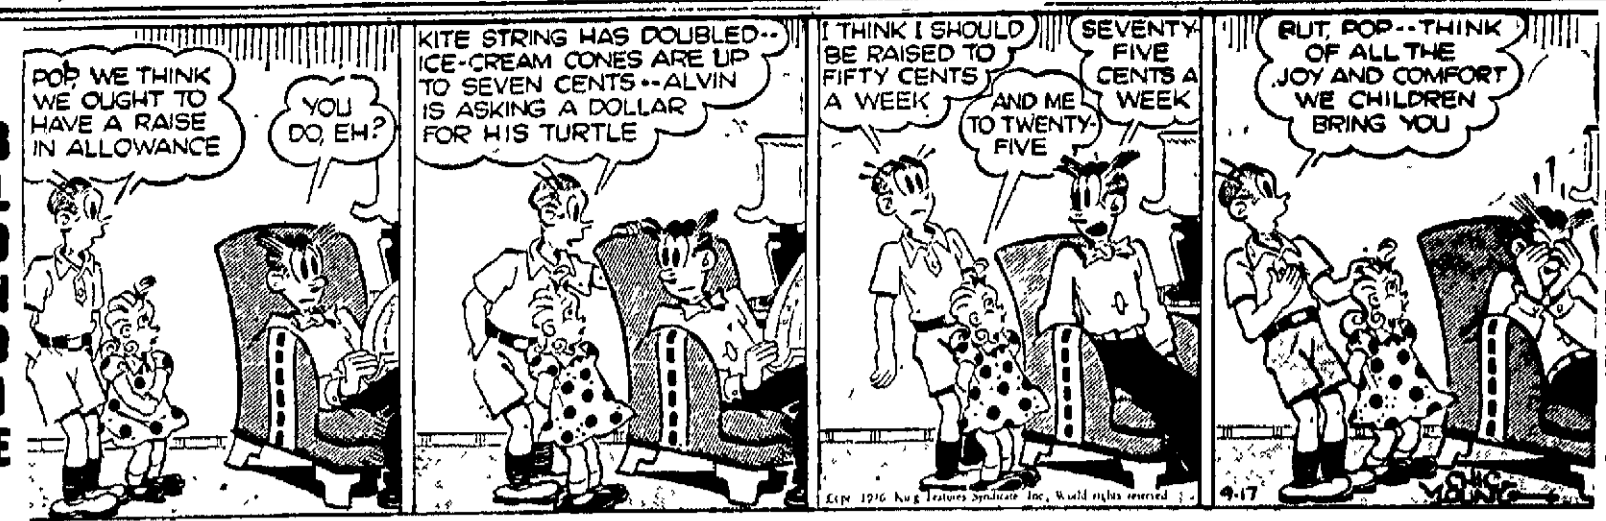

"Well," said Bartlett, "I am very enthusiastic about Burl Ives." "Burl Ives?" echoed the girl, incredulously. "Oh, sure, I know what you mean."

The following week Bartlett received the fan club paper and was startled to read: "Among Michael Bartlett's favorite foods are ives, which he likes boiled."

Andy Devine's seven-year-old son, Danny, was watching Andy laboriously mount a horse for "The Vigilantes Return."

After a good deal of giggling, Danny summed it up with: "Next time, Daddy, you ought to use a ladder."

SOIL ENRICHER
Lightning enriches the soil of the earth each year with approximately 100,000,000 tons of nitric acid. Lightning bolts release it from the air, and it falls in raindrops, furnishing more of this soil builder than is manufactured by all the world's fertilizer plants.

India Student Enters Northern

(Special To The Lima News)
ADA, Sept. 17—Even though he comes from India, Suraj Bahadur of Lahore, Punjab, India, has already found a trace of his native land in this village where he will spend the next four years on the campus of Ohio Northern.

Suraj has found a real friendship in Mrs. Martelle Davis, 707 Gilbert-st., his landlady. Mrs. Davis taught for many years in the Isabelle Thoburn university in India, becoming acquainted with the languages and people while her late husband was employed as an engineer by the British government in the Middle East.

With sea passage tied up by the threatening maritime strike, Bahadur flew the Atlantic from England to New York.

Weston Hook, a native of Hawaii, arrived on the campus on Saturday and proceeded to get acquainted with the university and town. He is rooming at the A. C. Church home and already has made several friends.

Dan Haber, Ohio Northern graduate of 1931, was instrumental in guiding Bahadur to Ohio Northern. While doing a service stint in Calcutta, India, Haber became acquainted with the boy's father, who is engaged in government service, and prevailed upon him to send his son to the university here.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 17—(INS)—Charles Mull, owner of a tavern near Camden, today was fined $406 after taking a fling at playing the role of Good Samaritan.

Mull said he took in John Macey, 25, his wife, Peggy, and their seven-year-old son, permitting them to occupy his second-floor apartment. The tavern-keeper said the Maceys and his money both disappeared yesterday.
