

75,000 MINERS TEXTILE UNION, ASK PAY HIKE

Mack Truck Strike Believed Ended after 194 Days Of Dispute

(By The Associated Press) Representatives of 75,000 hard coal miners and of 85,000 textile workers bid for higher wages Saturday as a 194-day old strike of 7,000 Mack truck employees saw a settlement agreement reached.

The hard coal request was made to John L. Lewis, head of the AFL United Mine Workers by the Shenandoah, Pa., general mine board of the UMW amid indications of a government move to end federal control of the soft coal mines.

Lewis is believed to have asked the government for more money and fewer working hours for the 400,000 soft coal miners and his aides have been conferring with Capt. N. H. Collisson, federal coal mines administrator, on new contract terms, preliminary to a meeting Monday between Lewis and Secretary of the Interior Krug.

Lewis has notified the government the soft coal contract will terminate Nov. 29. The contract with the hard coal or anthracite operators permits reopening on 10 days notice.

The textile workers bid for more money came in Boston as delegates of the CIO Textile Workers union voted to demand a general wage increase of 20 cents an hour in 158 woolen and worsted mills in 20 states.

Emil Rivie, general president of the union, said the conference was one of a series in which delegates representing the union's 400,000 total members are preparing wage demands in every division of textiles.

Settlement agreement in the Mack strike depends upon ratification by the union membership. A union representative said, however, that "we got what we asked for."

Conciliator Edgar L. Warren said the agreement provides a 25-cent hourly boost for non-incentive workers and 12 cents for incentive workers. The walkout of the CIO United Auto Workers covered four plants in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Negotiations continued in attempts at settlement of Pittsburgh's 41-day hotel strike covering 1,800 workers in eight major hotels and Rochester, N. Y., was without a daily newspaper as the result of a wage dispute between mechanical employees and the management of two Gannett newspapers.

Meanwhile, the CIO transport workers union threw a picket line around the New York Board of Transportation headquarters, and the government renewed efforts to end the 13 day old strike of AFL pilots on Trans-World airlines.

Leaders of the New York Transport Workers union said the members would be polled Wednesday and Thursday on the question of striking against New York's unified transit system.

The strike threat was raised after the three man board of transportation voted two to one to reject a recommendation of Mayor William Dwyer's advisory committee that the board engage in collective bargaining with the dominant transit union, which is the TWU group. Also at issue is the question of retroactivity of 29 cents an hour pay boost granted recently.

Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the National Mediation board sought to end the TWA pilot's strike stalemate by bringing together in his office Frank Frye, airline president, and David L. Behrke, president of the AFL Airline Pilots-assy.

Four of the largest units of the AFL American Federation of Radio Artists—the Hollywood, New York, Chicago and San Francisco locals—were in record as favoring a strike unless the four major networks agree to a new contract.

PROGRESS MADE WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(INS)—TransWorld airline strike contract negotiations tonight after National Mediation Board Chairman Frank Douglass reported "some progress" at a four-hour session this afternoon.

ATTLEE CLAIMS DISARMAMENT NOT IN OFFING

Britain Disappointed by UN Progress, World Security

LONDON, Nov. 9—(INS)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee declared tonight that Britain is determined not to undertake any disarmament program until confidence in the United Nations has been developed and a general system of security is established.

He expressed disappointment that the United Nations to date, instead of enjoying objective and business-like proceedings, has been beset by obstruction.

Of this he said: "There are propaganda attacks on flimsy pretexts and a variety of episodes which tend to bring the organization into disrepute instead of building up the confidence we so much desire."

Referring to disarmament in a speech at the lord mayor's banquet in Guild hall in which he dealt mainly with domestic affairs, Attlee explained why the British at present had not thought to disarm themselves.

"Disarmament must march hand in hand with the establishment of general system of security. It cannot be unilateral."

In detailing the nation's position, Attlee added: "We cannot relinquish any of our responsibilities until we are satisfied that we have achieved a greater security to replace what we now exist."

"Our basic policy is to work in closest cooperation with all countries, particularly with the Soviet Union and the United States."

In reference to the United Nations, Attlee said: "If we are prepared gradually to transfer certain functions of sovereignty, hitherto held to be national, to a larger 'sovereignty', then we must move with great care."

"Confidence in this organization must first be developed. If I know we have all felt disappointed at the way in which the organization is being used."

Here he made his statements concerning obstruction and the resort to propaganda, adding: "It is clear that if the United Nations is to be used as a forum for debating ideological differences it will fail."

"It can succeed only if used to secure for all nations the freedom to preserve their own ways of life while contributing to the common good of the world."

Dan Cupid's Ledger Will Show Best Record Ever in Allen-co

An all-time record number of marriages already has been set for 1946 in Allen-co, and the remaining two months of the year merely will determine how high the record will be. It was revealed Saturday as October's totals were added to those of the year.

The 101 applications and bans issued in October at the Allen-co bureau pushed the figure past 1,000, exceeding the previous all-time high of 1941, with two months yet to go.

In some parts of the country the marriage and divorce rates are about on a par, but in Allen-co at least, they were not even close in October. The marriage rate for the month was more than double the number of divorce petitions filed and quadruple the number of divorce decrees granted.

The greatest factor in posting a new record, license bureau attaches agreed, was the return of many men from service whose wedding plans had been delayed by the task of finishing off Messrs. Hitler, Mussolini and Iffrohit.

In 1941, with all but the last three weeks a "peacetime" year, 921 applications and bans were issued at the Allen-co courthouse for prospective brides and bridegrooms. It was the greatest number of applications and bans issued in any year of the 10-year span from 1935 to 1945 and the greatest of those in which records were available.

The number of applications fell off to 859 in 1942, and 641 in 1943, when Uncle Sam was bidding against his nieces for first claim on his eligible nephews.

In 1944, the couples anticipating marriage dropped to 627, and the first half of 1945 was a dull six months for Dan Cupid.

With a lot of GI Jets jumping from separation centers into license bureau offices after V-J Day, the year's total received enough impetus to climb to 783, and the surge carried thru the first 10 months of 1946.

June, traditionally, again was the "month of brides" in 1946, with 153 couples getting their applications or bans.

There were three other "better than 100" months in 1946, May, August and October.
