

Benny Finally Offers Satire Of Hemingway's 'The Killers'

The Jack Benny program Sunday at 7 p. m. over NBC will feature Benny's delayed satire on Ernest Hemingway's "The Killers," with movie star Edward G. Robinson as guest. Robinson, the greatest of screen killers, will enact one of the title roles in the Waukegan Wit's burlesque of Hemingway's fast-moving tale of murder, robbery and assorted violence.

Ezio Pinza, leading basso of the Metropolitan Opera company, will be a guest of Patrice Munsel and musical conductor Al Goodman on the "Family Hour" broadcast at 5 p. m. on CBS.

Charles Boyer, "great lover" of the screen, will pay a call to Fred Allen at 8:30 p. m. over NBC. James Melton will have Josephine Hull as "Harvey" as guest star in a Thanksgiving drama, especially written for her, and a program of music appropriate to the holiday season on "Harvest of Stars" at 2:30 p. m. over NBC.

Henry Morgan, comedian, will present a capsule version of his program, "Here's Morgan," when Kate Smith sings, at 6:30 p. m. on CBS.

Movements one and three from the melodic "Concerto" No. 2 in C Minor, and "The Rock" (Fantasia for Orchestra), by the Russian composer, Rachmaninoff, will be heard over Mutual as Sylvan Levin conducts the orchestra for a half hour of "Symphonic Notes," at 7 p. m.

Jack Benny, who once demanded $1 cash immediately after answering Phil Baker's first question, has vowed to make an all-or-nothing try at the $64 question, when he guest stars on Baker's "Take It or Leave It" at 10 p. m. on CBS.
