

Spivak and Orchestra Make Second Appearance at Ohio

Charlie Spivak and his orchestra returns to Lima for second stage appearance at the Ohio theatre Tuesday.

Spivak, who has climbed the ladder of fame by playing "the sweetest trumpet in the world," appeared in Lima last year and was so enthusiastically received by music fans, decided that once again he would make a stop here. On the screen will be "Genius at Work."

Linda Darnell, the romantic interest in the Quilna's "My Darling Clementine," Henry Fonda and Victor Mature, share top honors in the film which bases its story on the town of Tombstone, Ariz., and how the rule of the lawbreakers there was broken.

The three stars present one of the most unusual teams in some time and Hollywood reports have it that it may not be long until they're cast together once again.

"Angel on My Shoulder" now playing at the Sigma is bringing some of the most amusing screen antics to local fans ever filmed. Paul Muni, Anne Baxter and Claude Rains have the leading roles in this picture which shares the billing with "Don Ricardo Returns."

With but one purpose in mind—to discover whether the Nazis are planning to build an atomic bomb—Gary Cooper, in "Cloak and Dagger," now at the State, sets out to fulfill one of the most dangerous assignments ever handed out during the war. Lili Palmer shares the leading roles with him as a member of the underground in Europe during the war.

Tons of snow blocking all passes and from a mountain resort presents one of the most blood chilling circumstances ever in the film, "Avalanche" now at the Lyric. Bruce Cabot has the starring role of the film which is co-featured with "In Old Sacramento."

Edward G. Robinson plays the lead in "Tampico" the picture now on tap at the Allen with "Caravan Trail." Opening Wednesday will be "Barbary Coast" and "Trail of the Silver Spurs."

Ten inches of snowfall equals one inch of rain in water content.

'Standing Room Only' Comedy Spotlights Paulette Goddard

Paulette Goddard will make her third appearance on "Hollywood Players," Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. on CBS, to star in the hilarious comedy hit, "Standing Room Only," in which she scored a great screen hit.

A satire on the housing shortage in Washington, it deals with the adventures of a toy manufacturer, planning to convert his factory to post-war production, and his secretary, played by Miss Goddard, who try to find a place to stay in Washington while waiting to see one of the top reconstruction executives.

A stranger walks in Detective Michael Shayne's office, pulls a gun on him, and announces he is going to kill the Irish sleuth, during the broadcast at 8 p. m. on MBS. Shayne is saved, however, when the man drops dead at his feet, causing the detective to launch a hunt for an unknown killer.

Andy goes on an audience participation program, during the "Amos 'n' Andy" broadcast, at 9 p. m. over NBC, and wins a prize which makes him feel he is a man of wealth, before he runs into some disappointing situations.

The second in the unique series of "optional" broadcasts, in which listeners' opinions will be sampled while the program is in progress, will be heard on Mutual's "American Forum of the Air" as leading authorities debate the question, "Should Labor Get a Raise," at 9:30 p. m.
