Surprise?

Where now are the calamity-criers who were abroad in this fall's campaign getting themselves hoarse by howling after Sen. Joseph McCarthy as the tool of interests out to wreck labor?

In a dark corner, scratching their heads? Sen. McCarthy goes up against Sen. Joseph Ball, who has drawn the nation's labor-interest with his anti-closed shop bill.

Unhatched Chickens In his first letter to constituents from the new congress, Rep. Lawrence Smith, a Wisconsin Republican, pays tribute to President Truman as "a good American."

His handling of John L. Lewis undoubtedly helped him. Perhaps a little human sympathy for a figure so beset and beloved also may be accountable, though Dr. Gallup doesn't say so.

At any rate, the figures this month show that 35 per cent of the people approve of the way Mr. Truman is handling his job, as against 32 per cent in mid-October.

Some of his former opponents obviously shifted to a position of approval and others went to a neutral position, reserving judgment.

That not-insignificant segment of 18 per cent also now is judging the Republican congress and its presidential aspirants, on which judgment it will make up an important mind for 1948.

Germes Blown Apart (New York Herald Tribune) Scientists have found that the one way to annihilate a germ is to blow it to pieces, according to Dr. A. P. Krueger of the University of California.

Another frantic neighbor was E. E. Brossard, revisor of the statutes, who has been working with legislative interim committees, the department of public welfare, social workers and judges on a revision of laws relating to public welfare.

Quite a frantic neighbor last week was Martin Tollund, H. Horeb attorney and frequent Madison visitor. Several clients had given Martin information for their income tax declarations which were due Jan. 15.

He understood that Martin finally got all the declarations in, just under the wire.

Another frantic neighbor was E. E. Brossard, revisor of the statutes, who has been working with legislative interim committees, the department of public welfare, social workers and judges on a revision of laws relating to public welfare.

One redraft was made Jan. 8, another Jan. 10, another Jan. 13 and a fourth Jan. 15. If there are any more, Brossard

A former pupil of the late "Bennie" Snow, beloved professor of physics at the University of Wisconsin, told the story this week of a "dastardly" plot that wrecked the climax of one of Bennie's pet lectures and almost broke his heart.

Professor Snow's fame grew largely out of his annual lecture on snowflakes, but naturally he lectured upon many other subjects, and it was his custom to build up his demonstrations to a dramatic climax worthy of the best showman.

One day, his ex-pupil relates, he lectured on magnetism to two successive classes. On a table near him was a huge magnet, and hidden underneath was a keg of nails. As his climax for the day, Bennie picked up the magnet. To the students' amazement, at the first lecture, all the nails adhered to the big horseshoe.

But one student attending the second lecture had been in on the tail end of the first, and knew what was coming. He sneaked out into the hall quietly and pulled the power switch.

So Bennie hurled the nails, and they failed to stick. His chagrin, said the ex-pupil, was pitiful to behold as he crawled about the floor on hands and knees, picking up the scattered contents of the keg.

Hereafter Paul Ryan, funeral director, will refrain from boasting about ideal winter weather conditions in Kansas. Accompanied by his family, Paul drove there to spend the holidays with relatives of his wife. Before leaving he told friends it never gets cold nor snows in that state.

The family learned about it only after Carlton wrote home asking "how come" nobody's letters had mentioned seeing his picture. Now the supply of stamps is scarce here and relatives have had difficulty in buying some for keepsakes.

Young Moran, who has been in the navy two years, is expected home before long. He has been in the Pacific and was on duty during the atomic bomb tests off Bikini.

One person who places little faith in the magic healing powers of the Rev. Fr. Chestnut is County Judge Fred M. Evans.

A year ago last October the "star" defense witness in the Alex Ralnes murder trial was brought before Evans for examination preparatory to a temporary commitment to Mendota state hospital for mental observation.

Judge Evans was having trouble with his eyes at the time, and Fr. Chestnut offered to correct them. "They're worse now than when I committed him," the judge reported today.

Several clients had given Martin information for their income tax declarations which were due Jan. 15. For safekeeping, Martin locked up all the information, and some completed returns, in a metal filing case, then lost the key.

Unable to open the file, he was compelled to call a Madison locksmith for help, and even the locksmith couldn't get it open until the lock was "jimmied."

Another frantic neighbor was E. E. Brossard, revisor of the statutes, who has been working with legislative interim committees, the department of public welfare, social workers and judges on a revision of laws relating to public welfare.

Four or five complete redrafts have been made of Chapter 322, relating to adoptions, and within the past week, Brossard has been called upon to make four redrafts of Sec. 322.04, in order to "satisfy everybody."

One redraft was made Jan. 8, another Jan. 10, another Jan. 13 and a fourth Jan. 15. If there are any more, Brossard

Deadlock Feared Over School Aids

Childs Sees Disagreements Blocking Congress' Action

WASHINGTON — FEDERAL AID TO bolster America's declining public school system is likely to be shoved aside in the great economy drive now in congress, but that will not happen without a contest.

There are indications that public opinion is at long last aroused over the failing condition of public education in almost every state in the union. The people back home are letting their congressmen know what this means in terms of closed schools and hopelessly crowded classrooms.

In principle most members of congress would be for some degree of federal aid. But it is over the size and kind of aid that they disagree, violently and in a variety of ways, the probability is for no action at all.

IN THE LAST CONGRESS, SEN. Robert A. Taft of Ohio joined with two Democrats, Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama and Sen. Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, in sponsoring a bill which provided a moderate federal subsidy for education.

About 33 states would be eligible for aid under the bill. Texas would get $21,758,000, North Carolina $21,732,000, Alabama, $18,848,000, Georgia $17,406,000, and these sums would range down to $73,000 for Montana.

Fifteen states, those with high educational standards and large revenues from concentrated wealth, such as California, New York and Massachusetts, would get no benefits.

AT THE OTHER EXTREME IS A PROPOSAL to make up to $2,000,000,000 a year available to the nation's schools, without regard to need in the separate states. This will shortly be reintroduced under the sponsorship of Sens. James E. Murray and Claude Pepper, Democrats, and probably Sen. Wayne Morse, Republican.

The Taft-Hill-Thomas proposal will also be reintroduced. Taft is for it again. But he does not hold out much hope for its passage. Congress will turn down the Murray-Perpe-Morse proposal, as Taft sees it, and this will kill all chance of any aid to education.

There are at least two major differences between the Murray and the Taft schools of thought on this matter. One, of course, is the difference in the amount of money appropriated. A second major difference is that the Murray bill makes the federal money available to all schools, parochial as well as public.

More than 100 young people of the Luther Memorial church will enjoy "A Night in China" Sunday at 5:30 p. m. in the church, it was announced today by the Rev. George E. Dressler, pastor.

The children will eat Chinese food with chop-sticks and listen to an address by the Rev. Waldemar Wolf, who was born and raised in China. A Chinese exhibit, prepared by Miss E. Grace Soderberg, former Christian missionary in China, will be displayed.

NO OTHER ISSUE ILLUSTRATES quite so well the paralysis that is likely to freeze this congress into inaction. And it will be so easy to pass the blame along to someone else. The conservatives can say, "If it weren't for those radicals, with their impossible, harebrained proposals, we might get a moderate measure adopted."

The radicals will say, "If it weren't for those reactionaries, who want to block everything, we could make progress."

Americans Are 12-Year Olds, Author Says

By SALLY SWING (United Press Staff Correspondent) PARIS—Liam O'Flaherty, Irish novelist, says that "as intellectuals, most Americans are 12 years old, and it's all the fault of Hollywood and New York."

The author of "The Informer" recommended that both cities be destroyed. "It's as simple as that," he said.
