YOUR MOST IMPORTANT

Signature

The most important document you will ever sign is your Will. It gives direction to, and names those who will have charge of the care and disposition of the property which you have spent a lifetime accumulating. Its provisions must be carefully and thoroughly considered to be sure they carry out your wishes.

Your attorney should draft your Will and you should discuss your affairs with him freely and frankly. You can profit by his skill and experience when it comes to drawing your Will in proper form.

The cost of employing an attorney to draw your Will is not a major consideration. That your Will provides the protection you desire, that it carries out your intentions is much more important. You will find that your attorney will not charge more than his services are reasonably worth, and by employing him, you may avoid unnecessary litigation and expense in the settling of your estate.

Our Trust Officers have had many years of practical experience in estate matters, and will be glad to discuss this all-important matter with you and your attorney at any time, without obligation.
