Phone Company Queries Knappen

Attacks Methods of Witnesses

The hearing before the Public Service Commission (PSC) on the Wisconsin Telephone Company's application for an increase in rates entered what is expected to be its last day today with cross-examination of the municipolities' witness, L. S. Knappen, public utilities consultant from Washington, D. C., by Atty. Francis J. Hart, counsel for the company.

Knappen testified Tuesday that the present low cost of money to the company made an increase in rates unjustifable and Hart today questioned the methods used by Knappen in determining the cost of money.

Stating that he didn't think the figures gathered by Knappen from data on "a few scattered" corporations gave a clear picture of the cost of money for all business, Hart also disputed the fact that the study on which Knap-

use long term averages and asked Knappen if he was the only expert witness "who uses 'spot earnings'
