Fix It Yourself

WINDOWS
Last week exactly 28 per cent of our mail consisted of questions about sticking windows. This figure is very significant so here we go on a bit of tour of what makes a window stick and what you can do about it.

A great many stuck windows are caused by painters getting paint between the sashes and the stop beads (those little strips of wood that hold the sashes in the frame). In most cases a slight tap around the edge of the sash will break this paint seal but sometimes you'll have to pry (gently, friend) the stop bead off and sand down the spots where the paint has accumulated.

When a house is adolescent it tends to settle and this movement will throw the window frame out of plumb. The net result of this is that the windows don't move. What you generally have to do here is to remove the stop bead, take out the sash and sand or plane down the edges until it works up and down easily. Don't take off a grain of wood more than is necessary.

Last but not least we find sashes that swell up in damp weather because moisture gets into the wood. A good cure here is to let the sash get good and dry and then paint all the edges.

The human scalp contains approximately 1000 hairs to the square inch

JAY JAMES
BRIDGEPORT'S
New Arrival....

We are proud to announce the birth of the JAY JAMES CAMERA SHOP, a new and modern photographic center, located at 191 Fairfield Ave.

The store will open its doors tomorrow (Thursday) morning and it will be chock full of many hard-to-get items.

It will be the policy of JAY JAMES to have no merchandise under the counter. We are in business to sell and we will make every effort to make you a satisfied and steady customer.

Come in and look around. We have the finest assortment of cameras, projectors, film, enlargers, meters, chemicals, etc.

We have also installed darkrooms for your free use. They will be equipped for enlarging and contact printing. Our contracts are many, and items which have been unobtainable to date will be found in quantity at JAY JAMES.

Flashbulbs are just one of these commodities and if you are interested in this, we can supply you with just about all that you can carry. And we're not feeling either.

We'll be waiting for you—amateur and professional, alike.
